40 MILLION IN TAXES OVERPAID TO U. S.

Great Sum Collected Through Error May Be Refunded to Citizens

Washington, Feb. 2.—More than $40,000,000 of the taxpayers' money is now held in the United States Treasury as the result of illegal collections during 1918 and 1919.

This statement was made by Representative Henry W. Watson, Republican, of Pennsylvania, whose investigation shows that illegal collections in 1918 amounted to $12,000,000, while the estimate of the Internal Revenue Bureau is that the overpayment in 1919 amounted to three times those in 1918.

The taxpayers to whom this money rightfully belongs will not be reimbursed until Congress orders such action.

Mr. Watson believes the overpayments should be refunded promptly, and will introduce a bill providing such relief. He said:

"The income tax returns for 1919 must be filed by March 15 to avoid penalties. I have been frequently questioned as to when illegally collected taxes are to be refunded. It is estimated by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue that $12,000,000 were illegally collected in 1918.

"The amount due from the government through errors in the income tax returns for the year 1918 is between $300,000,000 and $400,000,000. Although all of the returns have not been duly audited, errors of more than $1,000,000 in single returns have been discovered, which amounts naturally accrue to the advantage of the government.

"The Treasury Department has expended $12,000,000 in examing the 1918 returns. The investigations have revealed enormous amounts due the government.

ELOPER IS OUT OF ARMY

Morgan's Heir Starts Out to Make His Way; Leaves Secretly With Wife

Lieutenant Laurens Morgan [illegible] grandson of J. Pierpont Morgan, great-grandson of Alexander Hamilton and hero of a runaway marriage with Mrs. Gertrude Warren, a fascinating widow, was today honorably discharged from the United States army. He had been aide to Major-General Clarence R. Edwards.

Official announcement was made today, and at about the same time it was discovered that he and his charming bride of a week had left Boston. Their whereabouts is a secret, save to a few close friends.

The young scion of wealth, with his wife, who so much displeases his parents, has apparently started out to make his way in the world. Both declared in interviews with American representatives that they were not awed by the Morgan forces.

They breathed defiance and asserted that, despite this form of opposition, the match was a perfect one and that they would succeed. Hamilton asserted that his army training was the basis of his future life and that he expected to succeed.

They were married in Christ Church, Portsmouth, N. H., on January 22 by the Rev. C. V. Brine, rector.

City Clerk James Donovan was unanimously re-elected.

On motion of Councillor Lane the election of Moriarty was made unanimous. President Moriarty was presented with a K. of C. charm by a delegation from South Boston.

Reduction of the high living cost through lower taxation, and a renewal of his recommendation for State ownership of the Boston Elevated, were salient points in the annual message of Mayor Peters to the 1920 City Council at its first meeting today, which, for the city of Boston, marks the beginning of the official year.

With a surplus of $3,769,000 in the treasury, the largest ever known, Boston has passed one of the most successful years in its history, and stands on the threshold of a year

FOUND IN WATER BY DETECTIVE

Letter Addressed to Doctor Benner Is Introduced at Divorce Trial

John Giblin, a detective employed by Ernest B. Freeman to trail his wife, today told on the witness stand how he found the "One mad rush and you" note.

Giblin, one of the first witnesses today in the Freeman divorce case, said he recovered the note in the water near the camp of the late Dr. Herbert O. Benner, near Centerville, on the Cape.

The note, which with its envelope was submitted, was addressed to "H. O. Benner, M. D., Centerville, Mass.," and was found along three feet from the bench on which Dr. Benner was accustomed to sit.

REPULSED ADVANCES.

Mrs. Freeman refused her husband's pleas to become his wife again and give up Dr. Benner, on two occasions, according to the testimony today of Agnes Doherty, a former maid.

Miss Doherty, who was employed by the Freemans from July, 1917, to July or August, 1918, was the first witness at the resumption of the trial of Mrs. Freeman's suit for divorce from Ernest B. Freeman.

The second daughter, Ruth, who was expected to testify, was not in court, but it was understood that she would take the stand later.

Miss Doherty testified that when Mr. Freeman made his plea to his wife,

Spiker Meets Mother of Brother's War Baby

By International News Service.

New York, Feb. 2.—Attended by an attorney and a crowd of curious persons, Guy S. Spiker went to Ellis Island today and met for the first time Miss Emily Knowles, pretty young English girl, mother of his brother's baby, whom he contracted to marry before he saw her.

Mrs. Perley Spiker, wife of the father of the Knowles "war baby," accompanied her brother-in-law to the island and was present when her husband's brother voluntarily offered to marry the girl.

A slight hitch over the matter of the bond under which the English girl will come into the country delayed matters, but there was every indication that the now famous case would be cleared up soon.

Both Mrs. Spiker and Guy went directly to immigration authorities upon their arrival. To them they explained that they had come to provide for the girl's release and her marriage to the brother of her baby's father, if she will consent to it.

FOLLOWS GOLDEN RULE.

Mrs. Spiker explained why she had sent passage money to the girl with whom her husband confessed he had been intimate while in England during the war.

"My philosophy is that of the golden rule," she told the immigration commissioner. "By that I do not mean that I am particularly religious, although I am a Protestant. Miss Knowles suffered an injustice, so I wrote to her and sent her passage money for herself and baby to come. That is all."

"I will marry Miss Knowles at once, if that is possible," said Guy Spiker.

U. S. SENATORS TO LAY BARE FRAUD IN LEAGUE

WILL AIR TRUTH ON TREATY

Civic and Business Leaders to Hear Walsh and Reed Wednesday Night

Why the League of Nations in its present form is thoroughly bad and should be rejected by the United States will be explained in detail next Wednesday night in Tremont Temple by United States Senators James A. Reed of Missouri and David I. Walsh of Massachusetts. They are to speak under the auspices of the Boston American with Grenville S. MacFarland presiding.

SEATS FREE TO PUBLIC.

Both Senators Reed and Walsh will tell the vast throng of men and women, who are expected to attend, just how bad a bargain it would be for this country to accept the League in its present shape. They will explain how the League would create an international voting trust of nine nations, dominated by five, thereby again disturbing the world's peace with probably resulting wars. They will also tell how the covenant would undermine the Declaration of Independence and destroy the Monroe Doctrine.

The Boston American wishes to reiterate that all seats for the meeting will be free with the exception of a few on the stage which have been reserved for prominent men and women of New England who have promised to attend, and the doors of Tremont Temple will be opened at 7:30.

Men and women who lead in the civic, professional and business life of Boston have accepted invitations to occupy seats on the platform when the Senators speak. Included among them are Louis A. Coolidge, treasurer United Shoe Machinery Company, director of many banks and manufacturing concerns and president of Massachusetts branch, League for the Preservation of American Independence; Herbert W. Parker, former attorney-general of Massachusetts; George W. Hyde, vice-president First National Bank of Boston; George Bramwell Baker, senior member of the banking firm of Baker, Ayling & Company and director in many banks, street railway and power companies; Junius Beebe, president Ayer Tanning Company and Wakefield National Bank and director in several other concerns.

Others who have accepted invitations are J. Mitchell Galvin, Samuel S. Dale, editor of Textiles; Major Carroll J. Swan, General H. Leroy Sweetser, head of the State Board of Labor and Industries.

LOUIS A. COOLIDGE.

Regenerate Freedom by Protesting the League

Tremont Temple a new "cradle of liberty!"

That's what will happen next Wednesday night when opponents of the League of Nations gather there under the auspices of the Boston American. The purpose of the gathering, at which Senators James A. Reed of Missouri and David I. Walsh of Massachusetts will speak, is to proclaim the re-birth of American independence and liberty. This regeneration will take the form of a patriotic protest against the adoption of the League of Nations by the United States.

Representatives of the League for the Preservation of American Independence, including Herbert Parker and Louis A. Coolidge, are much interested in the meeting. Parker and Coolidge, with E. Leroy Sweetser, Carroll J. Swan and others have accepted invitations to be present. Grenville S. MacFarland will preside. No tickets are necessary.

GAS MEN BACK LIGHT SAVING

Consolidated Officials Sign American's Petition Blanks in Favor of Plan

Directors of the Boston Consolidated Gas Company favor the American's petition for the adoption of a bill providing for daylight saving in Massachusetts. One of the petition blanks has been received signed by E. N. Wrightington, the vice-president and treasurer and by Dana D. Barnum, vice-president and chief engineer.

In a letter to the American, Mr. Wrightington declares that the talk that gas companies are generally opposed to the idea is erroneous. He says he has yet to learn of anyone interested in the gas business opposed to the daylight saving plan. The letter from William M. Calder of New York, a proponent of the daylight saving scheme, declares that after an investigation he finds no facts to substantiate the charges that gas and electric light companies have opposed the plan.

Oscar H. Fogg, secretary-manager of the American Gas Association says that the effect of the daylight saving law upon gas companies has been so negligible as to be unworthy of consideration.

LOCKED IN ROOM, SAYS WIFE

Brockton Woman Tells Court Dr. Nathaniel Preston Made Love to Another

Brockton, Feb. 2—How she was kept locked in her room while her husband in another part of their home entertained a pretty young rival was told today by Mrs. Mabel Preston, wife of Dr. Nathaniel Preston, who seeks separate maintenance. The case is being tried in Probate Court before Judge L. S. Chamberlain.

In the hope that the wife will disclose the identity of her rival, the court room is crowded, women predominating.

Visits of the young woman to the Preston home at all hours of night, as well as to the doctor's office, figured in the testimony. Mrs. Preston said she found hairpins in her husband's room after these visits.

The Prestons were married in 1905, and have an eight-year-old daughter, Madeline. Mrs. Preston testified that their marital relations were happy until 1917, when "the other woman" made her appearance.

She said that one day in 1918 she awoke about 4 o'clock in the morning by noises. Going to her husband's room she found the door locked, and was sure a woman was within.

Having called in vain to him to open, she threatened to wait until whoever was with him left the room, whereupon her husband rushed out, dragged her upstairs and locked her in. She said that after that he locked her upon several occasions while her rival was in the house. She never was allowed to see the woman's face.

Mrs. Preston said that for many months she and her husband lived as strangers in the same house.

Jazz Is Bestial, Says Rev. Dr. Conrad

The assertion that jazz is vile music of beasts, and people that crave jazz have many of the characteristics of beasts, was made by the Rev. Dr. A. Z. Conrad of the Park Street Church, who declared in his sermon that America is pleasure-mad and constantly in search of more exciting or more suggestive amusement.

"If a person loves music he despises nothing worse than jazz," he said. Only beasts and those persons who are degenerating into beasts like jazz. A real musician hates it. It is disgusting to anyone who has a real love for music."

MURPHY'S KEEPER TO TESTIFY

Establishes Sanity of Convict Who Now Gives Details of A. & P. Murders

Fairview, Pa., Feb. 2.—Jesse Murphy, gunman and convict, who has confessed to two murders in Boston for which George and Charles Rollins have been convicted, yesterday repeated his confession to Judge Thomas H. Connolly, an American reporter and Dr. W. M. Lynch, superintendent of the State hospital for the insane here. The man added a wealth of detail.

Charles Rollins is now serving a sentence of life imprisonment in Charlestown for the killing of Edward P. Foley, manager of the Blue Hill A. & P. store on February 17, 1917.

George Rollins is now awaiting sentence of death, following his conviction for the murder of Ordway Hall, manager of the A. and P. store, Washington street, Ashmont, February 24, 1917.

Governor Sproul of Pennsylvania has taken an active interest in the sensational case, and requested Dr. Lynch to give every aid in his power to the men who were attempting to secure justice for the Rollins boys.

GUNMAN REFUSED TO TALK.

Dr. Lynch, one of the foremost alienists in this State, declared himself ready at any time to go to Massachusetts and tell officials there of his belief in Murphy's sanity.

When the American reporter accompanied by Herbert Mcclinchey of Boston saw Murphy for the first time, here, on December 10 last the gunman refused to speak a word.

Never was there so great a change in a man as that shown by Murphy today as compared with the picture he presented a month and a half ago. The American reporter spoke of this to him and he replied simply:

"Well, in the first place it is a great load off a fellow's mind to be able to give up the idea of insanity. When you understand that I did not speak a word for six months, that I used every artifice I had heard doctors describe as characteristics of a crazy man, that I had to lie on my guard all the time, you will begin to see what a relief it was to get it off my mind."

"But the biggest change in me has come because I confessed the crimes. I knew that two boys were going to be punished, one of them get the chair, the other life imprisonment, for crimes I had committed, and in which they had no connivance whatsoever. My conscience is clear now, and I am ready to face whatever happens."

SHOWS KEEN MIND.

True to the gang ethics, however, Murphy would not give the names of his accomplices, of whom there were two. In each case he would not fire the shot that killed the storeman, but was second man out.

The man who has fooled Pennsylvania alienists to such an extent that they said he would never talk again, laughingly related the tale of his examinations by these experts. He discussed Massachusetts politics with Judge Connolly and the reporter and showed a keenness of insight and an intimacy with many of prominent men that revealed a memory far above the average.

Just one question asked by the reporter may show the quickness of his mind.

"Jesse," he was asked, "why did you always pick out the A. and P. Tea Stores?"

"Easiest thing in the world to answer," replied the prisoner. "It was my business. We picked out Saturday night or the night before a holiday and usually got paid all remember that the man inside did not own the store. He was not protector- his own property, so that under ordinary conditions would be less likely to make trouble."

$500 CASH PRIZE AND 100 MEDALS FOR SCHOOL CHILDREN

The Boston American Will Award Them for the Best Essays Written for Abraham Lincoln's Birthday Celebration

Attention, school children! Here is an important message for you:

Here is how you may compete for $500 in cash, the first prize, and the 100 silver medals the American offers:

The awards will be made to the writers of the best essays on the relations of the leading European nations towards the United States during Lincoln's time and——

The lesson of his words and his attitude on these situations applying to our time—to America and Americans today!

CONDITIONS OF THE CONTEST.

Each essay must not contain more than 1,000 words.

All essays must be in the American office by February 9.

Address the envelope to LINCOLN EDITOR, the Boston American, 80 Summer street, Boston 8, Mass.

The contest is open to school children of all ages and class rank. The age and class rank will be taken into consideration by the judges in deciding the winners. More will be expected of the older and higher grade children than the younger and lower grade children.

The idea will count as much as the phraseology. But clearness and directness of style will be expected from all contributors.

PURPOSES OF THE CONTEST.

The whole plan is to bring home to everybody in this great country the necessity of their living by the slogan AMERICA FIRST.

Americans must know what attitude European nations have had towards our country in the important crises of our history.

Let young Americans show those growing into citizenship with them and the older folk why we cannot depend upon European friendship or upon the attitude of any European nation as permanent.

Any one of the nations of Europe may be friendly towards us today, and any one, or all of them, may be hostile tomorrow.

America must depend upon itself, upon the spirit of its own people, the wealth and resources of its own country, the power of its own arms, and the independence and self-reliance of its own government.

In a phrase—AMERICA FIRST!

And, remember, your essays must be in the American office by February 9, when the $500 cash prize and 100 medals contest ends. You have a full week ahead of you—get busy!

Fifteen deaths from influenza outside Boston and 198 from pneumonia were reported as January's total.

According to Dr. Eugene R. Kelley, State Commissioner of Health, the influenza cases continue generally mild. Questioned as to a vaccine which one hospital is said to be using, Dr. Kelley said: "We do not as yet know of any efficacious vaccine."

Dr. Bernard W. Carey, deputy health commissioner, issued a plea for more nurses for Boston. Those who can render this service should register with Dr. Merrill E. Champion.

New cases in the past forty-eight hours were reported from nearby places as follows: Cambridge, 76; Malden, 59; Waltham, 48 (221 for the past week); Everett, 46; Worcester, 28; Melrose, 20.

WALTHAM WOMAN DIES FROM BURNS

Mrs. Silas Cate, aged sixty-five, of No. 205 Lowell street, Waltham, is dead at the Waltham Hospital from burns received when her dress caught fire from an open gas heater in her home.

Building Boom Not to Lower Rents Here

A tremendous boom in real estate is under way in Boston. But despite the new construction, real estate men say they see no prospects of lower rents before at least a year has elapsed. Even "a year" is speculative. Most of the new construction in the last few months has been in commercial establishments.

William H. Sayward, secretary of the Master Builder's Association for the past 30 years, says that since there are no signs to indicate any drop in the existing high prices on the other hand, the trend of materials and wages has been steadily climbing.

Applications for new buildings or alterations have been flooding the city building department, according to Charles S. Daunell of that office. Not since 1916 has the activity been as great.

The files of the department show that during the month of January there was an increase of 650 per cent. in money volume of applications for new construction and alterations, as compared with January, 1919. The exact figures are $4,666,107, against 712,012.

The large figures for this January are due chiefly to the application for the new $2,000,000 John Hancock building at Berkeley and Clarendon streets, and the new six-story structure that is going up in place of the recent building occupied by Macullar, Parker Company, at Washington street and Temple Place. S. S. Pierce Company will erect and occupy this new building and Magrane Houston will carry on their business only in Lynn.

Mr. Sayward says the cost of building, including materials and labor, has advanced 70 per cent. over 1917. The cost is about equally divided between labor and materials. The growth of the automobile industry has made big inroads on the plate glass supply.

ACCUSES BRIDE OF NAGGING

Husband Denies Affection for Wife Was Alienated by His Father

Providence, Feb. 2.—Cyril Reeves, husband of Mrs. Harriet Reeves, the nineteen-year-old girl who is suing her father-in-law, Walter R. Reeves, for alienating the affections of his son, denied on the witness stand that his father had anything to do with his estrangement from his wife.

The husband stated that narrative in the part of his bride was responsible for the separation.

Mrs. Reeves is suing for $25,000 and a suit for divorce is pending. On her behalf neighbors testified that the couple were a loving pair and that they often saw them kissing and hugging.

Says Woman Who Seeks Divorce Declined to Be Husband's Wife Again

the woman put her fingers in her ears and refused to listen.

TOLD FREEMAN TO GO.

Miss Doherty, examined by Attorney Thomas Hunt, counsel for Freeman, declared that in the year that she was in the Freeman household Mrs. Freeman was not home for luncheon more than ten or twelve times. She testified that Mrs. Freeman was frequently away from home, most of the time driving alone in her car, and that she returned home as late as 1 or 1:30 in the morning. She recited an incident in which at Christmas time, 1917, Mrs. Freeman told Freeman to "pack up his duds and get out," and now she locked the door.

Much interest was manifested in the narration by the maid of one incident when she received a mysterious telephone message. The person calling did not give his name. Mrs. Freeman went to the telephone, hurried upstairs and dressed and shortly afterwards started off alone in her automobile. "She did not return until 1:30 the next morning," said the maid.

Miss Doherty said:

"Mr. Freeman went out and got into his car, and Mrs. Freeman locked the front door. Soon he went away. He was living at the Copley-Plaza at the time. Mrs. Freeman said she was going to lock Mr. Freeman out, and she went round the house and locked the doors and windows."

Q.—Did Mrs. Freeman lock the door? A.—Yes, she did.

Q.—Did you see her? A.—Yes. Mr. Freeman came back and tried to get into the house, but could not do so. He tried the front door, but it was locked. Then he tried the back door. Then I went down to the back door and let Mr. Freeman in.

CALLED HIM A LIAR.

Q.—How many times did you hear Mrs. Freeman tell Mr. Freeman to get out of the house? A.—Well, I heard her tell him on Christmas Eve.

Q.—Did you ever hear Mrs. Freeman call Mr. Freeman any names? A.—I heard her call him a liar.

Q.—When was that? A.—It was during a quarrel when she came in. She was away all that evening. She said he struck her, and he said he did not. And she said, "You're a liar." I heard them talk about Dr. Benner, and getting a divorce.

Q.—Did you ever see Mr. Freeman strike Mrs. Freeman? A.—No.

Q.—Did you ever know of Mr. Freeman offering her forgiveness because she had been away? A.—No.

Q.—Did you hear any talk of forgiveness? A.—I "Twice.

Q.—What took place then? A.—Mr. Freeman just came home. He asked Mrs. Freeman to be his wife again, and he said he would forgive everything. He asked her to give up Dr. Benner and be his wife again.

Q.—And what did she say? A.—She said she never would be his wife again.

Q.—What was the other occasion on which he offered forgiveness? A.—Mr. Freeman asked Mrs. Freeman to give up the doctor and have nothing more to do with him, and to come to his room tonight. Mrs. Freeman said she would not. She stuck her fingers in her ears.

Miss Doherty was cross-examined by Attorney Damon Hall, counsel for Mrs. Freeman. She denied that she had been paid any money by Mr. Freeman except what she earned as a maid. She said she was hired jointly by Mr. and Mrs. Freeman.

TRAILED MRS. FREEMAN.

James A. Allen, Jr., a chauffeur of Dedham, testified that he was employed by Mr. Freeman in February, 1918, to trail Mrs. Freeman. He said that on March 20, 1919, he found her car in front of the Union Avenue Hospital, in Framingham, and that it remained there for about an hour. He said that he found the car several times in Park square, and that she came towards it from the direction of Boylston street and Park square. Under cross examination by Attorney Hall, Allen admitted telling a police officer named Shepard that in all the time he had followed Mrs. Freeman "he hadn't found anything against her."

Herbert E. Taylor, assistant treasurer of the Framingham Trust Company, testified that Dr. Benner borrowed $1,000 on March 6, 1918, and deposited $1,000 on the first of April, and $1,750 the middle of April. Later testimony was offered by Freeman's attorney to show that Mrs. Freeman had withdrawn $2,000 from her account with a trust company in Worcester on March 13, 1918.

Fred C. Krauss, supervisor of general delivery at the Atlantic City postoffice, identified a change of address card which bore the date of March 25, 1918. On the back of the card was an entry showing that a letter had been forwarded to Box No. 7, Mattapan, and that the letter had come from Framingham.

This is alleged to be the card left by Mrs. Freeman while visiting Atlantic City, in which it is claimed she used her maiden name of Margaret Reed. The source of this card was questioned by Mrs. Freeman's counsel, who claimed that the card should have remained in the postoffice files at Atlantic City until March 25, 1920, instead of finding its way into the hands of Freeman's counsel.

TELLS OF FINDING NOTE.

John Giblin, a detective employed by Freeman, testified that he took a note from the waste of Dr. Benner's camp, near Centerville. The note, which was offered in evidence, bore the words, "All right. One mad rush and you!" The note was found in September, 1919.

Giblin said that the note was in shallow water, about three feet from a bench where he had been accustomed to see Dr. Benner sit and read his letters. It was in an envelope address, "H. O. Benner, M. D., Centerville, Mass."

Both the note and the envelope were faded and the postmark was blurred.

The detective described observing Mrs. Freeman come from the office of Dr. Benner in Park square on September 3, 1918. She was apparently greatly excited, he said.

Mrs. Freeman made notes of the detective's testimony.

Giblin also told of a meeting of Mrs. Freeman and Dr. Benner at his hospital on July 22, 1918.

Q.—What did you see at that time? A.—Dr. Benner came out on the verands of the hospital about 7:30 p. m. and began pacing back and forth. About 8:45 Mrs. Freeman drove up in her car, coming from the direction of Worcester. Dr. Benner came down the steps, got into the automobile, and sat there talking with her. At 8:15 she drove off in the direction of Natick.

WATCHED POSTOFFICE.

John Giblen, another detective, testified that in April, 1918, he was assigned to watch the postoffice at Mattapan square. He said that Mrs. Freeman received there letters addressed only with the box number, No. 7, but no name. Other letters, from Worcester, were addressed "Miss Margaret Reed, Box No. 7, Mattapan." One letter which had only the box number on it came from the Elks' Club at Elizabeth, N. J. This was dated April 5. The detective said that he identified them letters by looking through the glass of the box door.

He testified that he was assigned to watch Dr. Benner. During a description he gave of the physician Mrs. Freeman made notes.

E. S. Wood, formerly employed by the Sturtevant Blower Company, testified that he had seen Mrs. Freeman at a theatre with a man who was tall and had gray hair. Mrs. Freeman's attorney asked her brother, who was in the courtroom, to stand, and then asked the witness if that was the man. The witness said that it was not.

MEETS GIRL HE AGREED TO WED

Guy S. Spiker Eager to Marry Mother of His Brother's War Baby

"That is what I came here for. I am only waiting for her consent. Or, if she can't marry me now, I will marry her anytime she is ready.

"I ask that Miss Knowles and her baby be placed temporarily in charge of my sister-in-law, Mrs. Perley Spiker. I want to make that clear because it has been reported that Miss Knowles will be sent to Fall River, Mass., to the home of Mrs. William Battersby.

"I am a working man and would like to get this matter over and return home as soon as possible.

SPIKER'S "OWN AFFAIR."

"This is my own affair—regardless of what has been said of and written about it. It has been said I am doing something out of the ordinary. That also is my own affair. It has been said that I am a disciple of Karl Marx and that I read Schopenhauer. Maybe so, but I want to say that I am doing this for my own account, that nothing in tradition or books has anything to do with it.

"I am an American-born citizen. My family before me were American-born citizens. I want to marry Miss Knowles now, and if she will consent. It will truly make me the happiest man in the world.

"My affidavit makes my mental attitude in this matter quite clear. I will not further and state that I have had plenty of time to think it over, and in no way regret my decision.

"A wrong was done Miss Knowles and it is in our province to right it as best we can. That we are trying to do," said Mr. Spiker, who is herself a mother. She was a school teacher in Harrisville, W. Va., before her marriage to Captain Perley S. Spiker eight years ago. She is a strikingly pretty blonde.

Guy Spiker, her husband's brother, was one of her pupils.

Attorney Kirchstein carried $1,000 in cash to put up for Miss Knowles' bond when he went to the island. The authorities decided that cash was not acceptable, and a messenger was dispatched back to Manhattan to secure Liberty Bonds.

NEW HAVEN MEN TO JOIN FREIGHT STRIKE

believed that Mr. Hines will at least make known his plans to the New Haven men by Wednesday, as he has already expressed his appreciation for their having remained at work.

All meetings which were scheduled were cancelled following the meeting of the joint strike committee. The action was a complete surprise, union leaders having said that they would probably be able to put a proposition to the men at the meetings. This, with other reports that Mr. Hines had a decision ready and that he would demand that the men return to work before handing down the decision, had given hopes that the strike might be ended by vote of the men.

This unexpected turn, however, does not remove the possibility or hope of a settlement by the early part of this week. The demand by Mr. Hines that the men return to work first would not need to be changed, but simply tempered by an announcement by him of a definite date as to when he would hand the decision down.

General Railroad Strike Is Feared

Washington, Feb. 2.—A general strike of railroad employes without authority from their leaders is feared by railroad brotherhood leaders if Director-General Hines refuses to grant increased wages to railroad workers when he meets with their representatives tomorrow.

J. B. Stalloy, vice-president of the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employes, today declared that unauthorized strikes are certain if Mr. Hines gives an unfavorable answer on the wage demands. Unauthorized strikes may result in a general strike situation, serious enough to hamper the transportation facilities of the nation, it was said.

The brotherhood leaders today received information that Mr. Hines is prepared to grant slight increases to the maintenance of way employes, shop laborers, dining car conductors and railroad clerks.

Crown Prince Plans Return to Berlin

London, Feb. 2.—Friedrich Wilhelm, the former German Crown Prince, is planning to return to Germany shortly, because he has learned that his name is not on the list of alleged war criminals demanded by the Allies for trial, the Daily Express learns from Wieringen.

The ex-Crown Prince is said to believe objections to his return will soon be overcome and that he will be able to make his home in one of the Hohenzollern castles.

27 NEW FIREMEN IN SOMERVILLE

2-Platoon System Is Started; 22 of 27 Men Appointed Are War Veterans

Somerville today inaugurated the two-platoon system in its fire department, and the twenty-seven new men appointed by Mayor Eldridge at a special meeting of the Board of Aldermen assembled at the office of Fire Chief Sewall M. Rich and received their assignments.

Twenty-two of the twenty-seven new firemen are veterans of the world war. All but one of them came from the civil service list. Israel Y. Hall, having served five years as a call man in the department, under the law, could be appointed without taking an examination.

The force now totals 112 men, including the chiefs, and will be divided into two platoons of fifty-four men each.

The new men and their assignments are as follows:

William J. Baker, Harold I. Bavender, Edward A. Cutler, Stewart Glover and William J. Kearney, to Ladder 3; William J. Cressey, Fragola J. Kennedy and Everard J. Lynch, to Ladder 2; William M. The new men will receive $4 a day for the first year and will serve a probationary period of six months.

MADE 9,000 P. C. PROFIT IN WAR

Masses Plundered by Big Interests, Charges Labor Chairman Hayes

Detroit, Feb. 2.—War profits, ranging from 3,750 per cent. to 9,000 per cent., were made in 1917 by members of great corporations in the United States, according to Senate document No. 259, M. S. Hayes of Cleveland, national chairman of the labor party of the United States, told delegates to the first annual convention of the Michigan branch of the party here.

Mr. Hayes said copies of the document had been issued to Senators only and that it was now out of print and not available to the public.

Figures quoted by Mr. Hayes credited 404 coal companies, capitalized at $175,000,000 with having made profits of $78,000,000 in 1917. One mining company, he said, made 7,358 per cent. profit. Other figures quoted charged that meat packers made 4,244 per cent. profit, fruit and vegetable canners, 2,032 per cent; woolen mill operators, 1,770 per cent.; furniture makers, 3,395 per cent., and clothing and dry goods manufacturers, 9,852 per cent.

"The masses were simply plundered in the production of war materials," Mr. Hayes charged.

Insatiable profit-grabbers continued to grab in spite of all of the laws, Mr. Hayes said.

"Colossal, high-handed thievery," was Mr. Hayes' characterization of the war operations of big business."

Rupture Kills 7,000 Annually

Seven thousand persons each year are laid away—the burial certificate being marked "Rupture." Why? Because the unfortunate ones had neglected themselves or had been merely using care to keep the rupture (swelling) of the affliction and paying no attention to the cause. What are you doing? Are you neglecting yourself by wearing a truss, appliance, or whatever name you choose to call it? At best, the truss is only a makeshift—a false prop against a collapsing wall—and cannot be expected to act as more than a mere mechanical support. The binding pressure retards blood circulation, thus robbing the weakened muscles of that which they need most—nourishment.

But science has found a way, and every truss sufferer in the land is invited to make a FREE test right in the privacy of their own home. The PLAPAO method is unquestionably the most scientific, simple and successful self-treatment for rupture the world has ever known.

The PLAPAO PAD when adhering closely to the body cannot possibly slip or shift out of place, therefore, cannot chafe or pinch. Soft as velvet—easy to apply—inexpensive. To be used whilst you work and whilst you sleep. No straps, buckles or springs attached.

To Overcome Winter Complexion Troubles

If the chill air causes your skin to dry and scale or bgcome unduly red or spotted, before you go to bed spread a thin layer of ordinary mercolized wax over your entire face. Remove next morning with warm water. This is the ideal complexion treatment for the winter girl. The wax gently absorbs the dead particles of surface skin, so gradually there's no discomfort. This gives the underlying skin a chance to breathe and to show itself. In a week or so the new and younger skin is wholly in evidence and you have a really matchless complexion. Naturally all its defects disappear with the discarded cuticle—as chaps, roughness, blotches, pimples, freckles, blackheads. Usually an ounce of mercolized wax, procurable at any druggists, is enough to renovate even the worst complexion.—Advertisement.

CONTINUE FIGHT IN DEAN CASE

Jaffrey Selectmen Ask Governor Bartlett for Early Conference

East Jaffrey, N. H., Feb. 2—Greatly encouraged by the results of their trip to Washington, the selectmen of this town were today busy preparing for their next step which will carry the case involving the murder of Dr. William Kendrick Dean before Governor John H. Bartlett and Council at Concord.

The selectmen returned from Washington yesterday and immediately wrote to Governor Bartlett to arrange for a conference as early as possible. At this conference, which may occur this week, the selectmen through their counsel, Attorney Harry N. Gutterman of Boston, will present a bill of allegations in support of their request that special counsel be appointed by Governor Bartlett to prosecute the Dean case.

One of the most important developments in the case at the Washington hearing was the conspiracy charge advanced by Attorney Gutterman.

Attorney Gutterman, who acted as special Attorney General in Massachusetts in the high cost of living probe told the New Hampshire Senators and Congressmen and the assistant United States Attorney General that the evidence in the Dean case involving enemy activities, came within sections 37 and 135 of the Federal penal code.

These sections provide for a fine of $10,000 or imprisonment for ten years, or both. The law reads as follows:

"Section 37—If two or more persons conspire, to commit any offense against the United States, or to defraud the United States in any manner or for any purpose, and one or more of such parties do any act to effect the object of the conspiracy, shall be fined not more than $10,000 or be imprisoned not more than ten years or both."

"Section 135—Whoever corruptly, or by threats or force, or by any threatening letter or communication, shall endeavor to influence, intimidate or impede any witness, in any court of the United States or before any United States Commissioner, or officer acting as such commissioner or by any grand or petit juror or officer who may be serving at any examination or other proceeding before any United States Commissioner, or officer acting as such commissioner, or the discharge of his duty, or who corruptly or by threats or force or by any threatening letter or communication, shall influence, obstruct or impede or endeavor to influence, obstruct or impede the due administration of justice therein, shall be fined not more than $1,000 or be imprisoned for not more than one year or both."

SPIRITISM FALSE THEISM, SAYS FATHER BURKETT

The Rev. Philip H. Burkett, S. J., professor of philosophy at Boston College, in an address before the Catholic Alumni Sodality of Boston at the college, denounced as false most of the claims which have been set up in support of spiritism.

"Spiritism when analyzed," he said, "proves to be rank materialism. Its spirits eat, drink and sleep. It is a false theism, a creed of doubtful science, a deceptive mirage."

FEAR 3 ON BOAT MAY BE LOST

No Trace of Mail Craft Since She Left Maine Port Thursday

Rockland, Me., Feb. 2.—The mail boat Beatrice, with three men aboard is believed to have been lost in the ice floes between this port and Matinicus Island.

No trace of the craft has been found since she left Owl's Head, at 4.30 Thursday night, bound for Matinicus Island. The cutter Acushnet today began breaking up the ice in the harbor, and she may learn something of the fate of the Beatrice.

The mail boat was commanded by Captain Burton Wallace. He is married and has one child. With him on the boat were Leo Hopper of Port Clyde and Edwin Ames of Matinicus.

The Beatrice was a thirty-foot gasoline launch with two engines and a capacity of twenty-five passengers. There were eighteen sacks of mail aboard.

Thursday night was a bright moonlight night, but the ice was so thick that the Beatrice could not get into Rockland. There is a remote possibility that the craft may have been disabled and put into Swan's Island. The telephone to this point is out of order.

Rabbi Wise Attacks College Training

New York, Feb. 2.—"Too many colleges in America are today as absolutely under private control as Fifth avenue clubs," said Rabbi Wise in his free synagogue in Carnegie Hall. "It is deplorable that in too many instances you find wealthy youths in the eastern colleges who are running about in costly motor cars, spending thousands of dollars and skimping along with just enough attention to their books to pass their examinations. Few of them can reasonably discuss or explain the problems of the day.

INCOME REPORT IS DUE SOON

Taxpayer Has Only Six Weeks in Which to Make His Return to U. S.

Six weeks remain to income taxpayers, in which to file returns for 1919. All returns must be in on or before March 15, and must be accompanied by at least one-fourth of the tax due. Those who prefer may pay the entire amount for the year at once.

Instructions issued today by Andrew J. Casey, acting collector of internal revenue, give details to aid professional folk in making out their returns. All single persons whose net income was $1,000 or more, and all married couples whose joint income was $2,000 or more, must file returns, whether or not the whole amount is for any reason exempt from taxation. Failure to file a return carries a penalty under the Federal laws. Expenses incurred incidental to the carrying on of business are deductible, but living expenses may not be deducted. Rent paid on a house is not deductible, unless a part of that house is used as a store or office, in which case a reasonable deduction may be made for the part so used. Repairs on equipment, running expenses, wear and tear on equipment and other expenses incidental to doing business may be deducted from the income return.

They are Edward P. and John P. McManus of Concord; Leo A. and Leonard A. Dugan of New Haven, Ct.; Donald R. and Harold A. Carr of Attleboro; James F. and Stephen A. McMahon of Millbury; Joseph A. and Paul A. Keane of Bridgeport, Ct.; and Edward A. Moosbrugger of Dayton, O., whose twin sister would also be a student there if Holy Cross were co-educational.

The Truth about Aspirin

It is time you knew the WHOLE TRUTH about this valuable medicine!

Make This Simple Test: Drop an ACCO Aspirin tablet and a tablet of any other make side by side in a glass of water. The ACCO tablet will instantly disintegrate to a little pile of fine white powder: watch the other tablet! Quick disintegration is necessary to obtain prompt relief.

ASPIRIN is NOT a Patent Medicine.* There is no secret about it. Its formula—a neutralized combination of acetic anhydryde and salicylic acid—is an open book. And the product of many reputable makers of Aspirin is undoubtedly GENUINE—pure and safe—at the time it is made. BUT—

Genuine Aspirin is an extremely delicate and sensitive product. No matter how pure it may be when MADE, the instant a tablet is exposed to the air, moisture or touched by hands it not only loses strength and medicinal effectiveness but absorbs impurities. Impure Aspirin will cause a distressed condition of the stomach, thus, materially reducing the medicinal value of the product. Consequently when Aspirin is packed in an ordinary glass, tin or paper container, this deterioration is inevitable—accelerated every time the package is opened—and many tablets are more or less ineffective at the time they are taken.

The only way you can at all times be certain of receiving the full medicinal value you pay for and should get when you buy genuine Aspirin is to be sure that each and every tablet is protected by an INDIVIDUAL, airtight, moisture-proof covering. Such a covering is now provided in ACCO, and in ACCO only;—the most beneficial safeguard ever developed for users of Aspirin.

This is the FIRST big, important truth you should know about Aspirin. There are others we shall tell you of in subsequent advertisements in this paper. They are worth watching for.

ACCO

is now packed air-tight so that each tablet comes to you absolutely fresh, pure, and with full medicinal effectiveness.

No better Aspirin than ACCO can be made, and exhaustive tests have proven its supreme quality. Because ACCO ASPIRIN not only starts pure, but from the time it leaves the laboratory until the instant it is used its goodness is protected by a new and wonderful waxed paper tape which Seals Each Individual Tablet against air, moisture, impurities and even the touch of your own fingers! Deterioration is impossible, regardless of how long a period elapses between making and taking. As shown here, you simply pull out a portion of the "Sanitape" and tear off as many tablets as are needed. The removal of one or more tablets does not affect the remaining tablets in any way. A strip of tablets—as many as you need—can be carried in pocket or handbag without harm. Thus, 100% genuine Aspirin is made 100% effective medicinally.

A Perfect Product, perfectly protected for your greater good.

The Albany Chemical Company, for forty years makers of standard American products for hospitals and the medical profession, guarantee ACCO ASPIRIN to be genuine Aspirin of supreme quality.

Mayor Peters Declares Curtis 'Misjudged' Police Strike Situation

promising great municipal prosperity, the Mayor pointed out.

Those who awaited a statement on the responsibility for the disorders on the first night of the police strike, in view of Adjutant-General Stevens' attempt in his annual report to pin the blame on Mayor Peters, were not disappointed.

Reviewing his efforts to see that the city was properly guarded, the Mayor refers to the statement of Governor Coolidge that no one had any authority to interfere with the police commissioner. He says:

PETERS ACTED PROMPTLY.

"In ordinary times the responsibility for maintaining order in Boston does not fall upon the elected officials of the city, but in case of riot or tumult the Mayor is invested with certain emergency powers. In the course of the recent strike of patrolmen, when such riot and tumult occurred, I exercised my authority promptly, and, as I believe, effectively.

"At an early stage of the difficulty I appointed a citizens' committee, which labored earnestly but ineffectually to get the police to give up their affiliation with the American Federation of Labor and not to strike.

"On Monday, September 8, it became clear that a strike was impending and that unless prompt measures were taken, the lives and property of citizens were in danger. That evening, in company with members of the citizens' committee, I saw the Governor and urged him to intervene, pointing out to him that I had no authority to act.

CONSULTED WITH CURTIS.

"On Tuesday about noon, believing that as Mayor of Boston I was entitled to know what provisions had been made by the State officials for the preservation of law and order in the city in the case of a strike, I consulted with the police commissioner, Mr. Curtis, and that he had the situation well in hand, had made adequate provisions for any emergency, and assured me there was no occasion for alarm. I asked him whether it would not be wise to have the State Guard mobilized in order that sufficient forces might be on hand in case of an emergency. The police commissioner Curtis stated in no uncertain terms that he did not wish their aid at this time.

"The Governor also pointed out to me plainly that no one had any authority to interfere with the police commissioner.

CURTIS "MISJUDGED."

"I had no alternative but to give the police commissioner a chance to demonstrate whether he had adequately provided for the situation. The events of that night demonstrated that he had misjudged it. As early as possible the following morning, Wednesday, I took over the control of the police department, ordered out those State troops located within the city of Boston, and requested the Governor to order out an additional 2,000 men.

"The adjutant-general was notified over the telephone that he would shortly receive orders calling out the State Guard and asking him to proceed in accordance with this information. At the same time the commanding officers of the Tenth Regiment, the First Motor Corps and the cavalry troop were called to my office and they immediately notified the officers of their regiments that their organizations were to be mobilized. The first of the troops were on the streets by 4 this afternoon and by Thursday morning order had been restored. Thursday afternoon the Governor assumed control of the State Guard."

TAXES INCREASE RENTALS.

Real estate, the Mayor declares, is bearing its maximum load of taxation, both in high average valuation and rates, and a continuance of the present system must necessarily check building operations and thus directly and indirectly to increase rentals.

The city tax rate, apart from school, county and State taxes, actually declined from $12.27 to $12.13, the Mayor contends, and the total rate for all purposes would have been $2 lower but for the "L" $3,000,000 deficit assessed against the city of Boston.

RENEWS RECOMMENDATION.

The message says:

"I renew, therefore, my recommendation that the State acquire the Elevated system, preferably by negotiation with the stockholders, at a moderate price, based upon actual values, and that the city receive full compensation for its outlay for subways and adequate representation on the Board of Control."

"The time to act in these matters is before, not after, the disaster. I renew, herefore, my recommendation that the State acquire the Elevated system, preferably by negotiation with the stockholders, at a moderate price, based upon actual values, and that the city receive full compensation for its outlay for subways and adequate representation on the Board of Control."

If the threat of remission of subway rentals suggested by the trustees of the "L" is carried into effect it will mean a loss to the city of $150,000 in annual income, making a debt that would be collected from the taxpayers year after year for a period of several decades, he says. The Mayor protests against such proposed action as "confiscation."

The Mayor regards as the most important concrete achievement of the past two years the resurfacing of the neglected streets at a cost less than the original estimates. Fourteen of the eighteen streets selected by a committee of citizens in 1918 as urgently in need of repair have been resurfaced, and the rest are soon to be completed. No important does the Mayor deem this work that he asks for a sufficient appropriation this year to bring the total appropriation for the three years to $4,000,000.

URGES WIDER STREETS.

Widening of Exchange street, extension of Stuart street and widening of Eliot street as far as Tremont are urged by the Mayor to relieve street congestion, which he declares is becoming more serious because of increased travel and the inadequacy of the highways.

The gradual abolition of Deer, Long and Rainsford islands institutions at a saving to the city of approximately $800,000 airgady is under way, the Mayor states. It is proposed that the almshouses population be housed in the buildings of the former parental school in West Roxbury, and that the tubercular and chronic cases be sent to the Consumptives' Hospital at Mattapan. The city buildings on these islands would be disposed of, giving additional revenue to the city.

Additional fire protection will be afforded the business section by the high-pressure system, of which the Mayor says:

"The high-pressure system, long delayed, will soon be installed, giving added security to the business section and affording a prospect of reduction in insurance rates. The search for a site for a pumping station has terminated in an arrangement under which power will be furnished effectively and economically from plants of the Edison Electric and the Boston Elevated Railway companies."

Part of the huge surplus now in the treasury will be used to pay for improvements to be made during the year which cannot be met out of the estimated borrowing capacity of $2,104,749. The Mayor lists among these improvements the Chelsea South bridge, a new ferryboat, police stations in East Boston, Roslindale and the city proper, a firehouse station, municipal buildings in Hyde Park, East Boston and the West End, research and pathological laboratories and quarters for house officers at City Hospital, and new buildings in connection with the proposed transfer of patients from Long Island.

Referring to the salary increases in this year's budget, the Mayor states:

"The heads of departments have been directed not to raise the pay of any employe whose work has proved unsatisfactory or to retain any employe whose position is superfluous. This is clearly their function since they alone possess the intimate knowledge required for passing judgments. I can only promise them my full support in carrying out the instructions given."

GIVES DELAND CREDIT.

Issue with the Finance Commission on the efficiency of City Collector Deland is taken by the Mayor, who declares that much of the success for the huge surplus is attributed to the collection methods of Mr. Deland. Department heads are also praised as "efficient economical and progressive, judged by a fairly exacting standard."

High Lights From Mayor's Annual Message

Recommends purchase of Boston Elevated by State, based upon actual valuation with full compensation to city for subways.

Says, "No effort must be omitted that promises escape from the vicious circle of high living cost, high taxes, and high living cost again."

Says events on first night of policemen's strike show that Police Commissioner Curtis "misjudged" situation.

Regards resurfacing of neglected city streets at less than estimated cost most important achievement of past two years.

Will back up department heads discharging superfluous employes or refusing salary increases to employes whose work has been unsatisfactory.

Says high pressure system soon to be installed will give additional fire protection to business section and possible reduction in insurance rates.

Recommends widening of Exchange street, Eliot street and extension of Stuart street to relieve traffic congestion.

Surplus of $3,769,000 on hand, largest in history of city, to be partly spent for various municipal improvements.

Suggests five to ten-year program of development for expenditure of Parkman Fund.

The Mayor suggests a five to ten-year program of development for the expenditure of the Parkman fund to show the needs of the park system and its possibilities for orderly development.

The year opens with a prospect of largely increased expenses in salaries and materials, the loss of $479,000 in liquor licenses and claims against the city for damages during the police strike expected to aggregate a large sum, besides an increased State tax of $1,000,000, one-third of which Boston will have to pay. About 40 per cent. of the $2,000,000 cost of the State Guard, or $350,000 a year for ten years, will fall upon Boston. To offset this will be the revenue of the abolition of the island institutions and in not having any "L" deficit to meet, and the increased rentals of $40,000 for market leases.

Lady Rhondda Would Bar Favors to Sex

LADY RHONDDA.

London, Feb. 2.—A plea for an equal place in industry for men and women in the post-war period of reconstruction, was made today by Viscountess Rhondda, the leading business woman of the British Isles.

"Let us take our place in the industrial life of the community on precisely the same footing as man, and let efficiency be the test everywhere," said the Viscountess. "That is the demand of the women and its justice must be admitted by all. In the struggle for existence woman has been forced into the industrial lists. She asks no favors on account of her sex. She asks only that the ordinary principles of common justice be displayed towards her.

"I am not preaching sex war. There is no time for such a thing now. Production is the watchword of our statesmen and economists."

SOVIET ISSUE TO BE FOUGHT OUT

Socialists at Albany Depending on Lenine's Friend to Defend Cause

By International News Service.

New York, Feb. 2.—That it is no crime to be in favor of the Soviet form of government in Russia is the position which the Socialist Assemblymen, who are being investigated by their colleagues at Albany, are preparing to take if the judiciary committee, which is hearing the evidence, will allow any further facts about the Russian situation to be brought to light.

The attorneys for the State are preparing to fight out the Russian issue with the Socialists. Stanley Washburn, correspondent of the London Times in Russia during the Czar's regime, and a secretary of the Root Commission to Russia, has been called by the State.

Much mystery has surrounded Washburn's appearance in Albany. It is known that he is fully conversant with all the reports secret or otherwise, which were made by the Root commission to the State Department. The Socialists are depending upon Albert Rhys Williams to defend the cause of Socialism in Russia.

Williams has written books about Soviet Russia and became well acquainted with Lenine. Williams has consorted with the Bolshevik leaders. Washburn was so familiar with the old leaders that he was received by the Czar and given high honors.

The appearance of these two Russian experts on the stand will be the signal for long and vigorous cross-examinations.

A New Appliance Sent on 30 Days' Free Trial At Our Expense.

Less than a year ago a Kansas City physician invented a new appliance for rupture. It was first tried out by a few local people and found successful. The news spread and in less than six months over 6,000 of the appliances were being worn by people reported relief. It is entirely different from any truss you ever saw. It is not a spring truss. It is not a leg strap truss. Neither is it an elastic web truss. It does not gouge nor bind—no bands of steel to bind. It is comfortable and easy to wear. It can be put on every time you can think of. The harder the rupture the better you will like it. You will wonder how you ever got along with the old kind spring trusses or belts with leg straps of torture. Your own good common sense and your own doctor will tell you it is the only way in which you can ever expect permanent relief. If you are ruptured, write for free trial and name of nearest leader. After reading the booklet if you wish to try one of the appliances we will send it on 30 days' free trial at our expense. After wearing it 30 days if it is not entirely satisfactory in every way—if it is not easy and comfortable—if you cannot actually see your rupture getting better just return it and you are out nothing. Any rupture appliance that is sent on 30 days' trial without expense to you is worth giving a trial. We manufacture Abdominal Belts, Body Braces, Elastic Hosiery, etc. References, any bank or trust company in Kansas City. SCHIELD CO., 2910 Koch Bldg., Kansas City, Mo.

JOHNSON'S HAND-PICKED CANDIDATES TO HEAD BASEBALL BOARD

CZAR PUTS ANOTHER ONE OVER

Killilea Reported Named to Succeed Garry Herrmann; James Brice Secretary

Milwaukee, Feb. 2.—From authentic sources it was learned today that despite the elaborate camouflage indulged in by Ban Johnson, Garry Herrmann and others anent the selection of a new chairman of the National Baseball Commission, that the selection of Henry Killilea of Milwaukee to that post had been agreed upon three months ago, and that eleven votes are pledged in supporting his nomination by Johnson at the big league meeting to be held at Chicago on February 11.

Besides the Frazee-Ruppert-Comiskey combination, there are only two doubtful votes that the Johnson forces are not sure of to sustain any move of Ban's to control the selection of a new board of officers for the commission.

The selection of James Price of New York as successor to John G. Heydler as the secretary-treasurer of the commission has raised a bigger protest than against Killilea.

Price is charged with being Johnson's "stool pigeon," put in office to see that Killilea does not become too friendly with the Comiskey forces.

His nomination is the last straw as far as the "Big Three" is concerned, and they are expected to quit the meeting when he is elected.

SHEVLIN TO BOX ALGER TONIGHT

Battlers in 12-Round Bout —Winner Will Be in Line for Good Bouts

By JACK CONWAY.

There will be few idle moments when Eddie Shevlin, Roxbury welterweight, and George Alger of Cambridge clash in a twelve-round bout at the Suffolk A. A.'s show at Hibernian Hall, Roxbury, tonight. As both of these men are boxing as well right now as they have at any time during their careers, there is sure to be a big crowd on hand to witness the tussle.

Shevlin and Alger have met several times, and have always thrashed the fans with plenty of action. They are master boxers, and also score with hard, clean punches. Of late Alger has been calling into play a right-hand swing, which lends it with great force. This blow sent Chick West to the mat and rocked Shevlin.

When Shevlin and Alger met recently, the latter won on a foul. It was the first time he ever won in this way, while it was the first time Shevlin ever lost on a foul. The result of this mill caused considerable dissatisfaction among the followers of the rival boxers.

Shevlin's friends believed he would have won if the frolic had gone the distance, while Alger's followers were just as confident that the Cambridge man's aggressiveness and punching ability would have gained him the honors. Due to the time the mill ended, Alger had more than held his own with the Roxbury boxer.

The winner of tonight's tussle will be in line for matches with Paul Doyle and Young Kiboy. This is sure to make each boxer strive all the harder to gain a victory.

K. O. Joe Leonard of Roxbury will have Johnny Giblin, who also calls Roxbury home, as an opponent in the semi-final of eight rounds. There will also be a couple of sixes.

TWO DOUBLE BILLS AT ICE PAVILION

Double-headers on Wednesday and Friday and a contest between the All-Boston team and the Harvard varsity on Saturday constitute this week's ration for Boston hockey fans.

In both double-headers the opening game will find Team A and Team B of the recently selected candidates for the All-Boston team opposing each other, while on Wednesday night the second half of the program brings Harvard and Tech together in a thrill-promising battle, and on Friday night the closing number will be a meeting of Tech and Boston College.

COLLEGE NOTES

ELMER NORTHRUP BIMBO, the famous double cross country runner, will leave the amateur ranks and enter the University of Pennsylvania.

PROHIBITION has put the blinkers on ski jumping at Dartmouth. There is no more ski.

WOODRUFF DINGLE, who was given the bum's rush at Wimple College, will matriculate at Penn. He is the snappiest fullback that ever signed a pay check. Dingle will study calisthenics and the language of flowers. His diploma calls for five thousand a year.

THE original Carlisle football team, including Pocahontas, Deerfoot, Geronimo, Slinging Bull, Bevo-in-the-Face, Hiawatha, Minnehaha and Man-Who-Drops-Raisins-In-His-Beer, will again represent Carlisle on the football field. Geronimo came near graduating forty years ago on a technicality.

DRIKING has been dropped as a major sport at Harvard. The waiters won't serve anybody less than a colonel.

THE spangled cubes have also been reduced from a major to a private sport. Members of the pinochle team will be allowed to wear their letters on their bath robes.

A CHESS cable match between Princeton and the University of Cuba will be held just as quick as the company lays a hollow cable.

THROUGH the munificence of a wealthy benefactor, the International Correspondence School will be able to build dormitories on top of every letter box in the country

VETERANS of the Students' Army Training Corps are requested not to wear wound stripes for cuts received in the end chair of the village barber abattoir.

IN spite of Colgate's efforts to stop intemperance, the sophomores still continue to use bear grease on their haircuts.

BRYN MAWR and Matteawan Seminary will meet in a joint debate. Subject: "Is wood alcohol a Summer or Winter drink?"

THE campaign to boost college professors' pay is going strong. The average pay is $1,108.45 a year. The profs are satisfied with the figures. All they want to do is to remove the decimal point.

NOBODY seems to know why the West Pointers wear their full-dress uniforms with the suspenders on the outside.

LAST year's Columbia eleven wasn't strong enough to win the championship of one of the Thousand Islands. The coaches will rely on their famous rubber sidelines next season. When the other side has the ball the lines are stretched to twenty yards. When the home boys grab the ball the lines are folded up to three yards. Science always triumphs over brute strength.

THE Purdue Weeje Board team is one of the strongest in the Middle West. You never hear of the Middle East, the Middle North or the Middle South, so it looks as if Purdue grabs the hand-laundered whisk broom.

BIG GREEN TEAM PLAYS IN WEST

Game With University of Washington at Seattle to Close Dartmouth Season

Hanover, N. H., Feb. 2.—Dartmouth will meet the University of Washington in a football game at Seattle, November 27, as the windup of the Green season. Final arrangements are now being completed by the graduate managers of the two institutions.

With the scheduling of this intersectional affair, the first in which Dartmouth ever participated, next Fall's card includes nine games and is without doubt the hardest schedule that has been provided for in recent years.

HARVARD MAY PLAY YALE AT PAVILION

Harvard is hopeful of convincing Yale that the Cambridge Pavilion is the right place for the second game of their hockey series Washington's Birthday eve. The first contest was played two weeks ago and Harvard won by a one-point margin.

Tillo and Sullivan To Box Wednesday

Frank Tillo, North End lightweight, and Johnny Sullivan of South Boston will meet in one of the twelve-round bouts at the Commonwealth A. A.'s show Wednesday night. There is considerable rivalry between this pair When they met recently at the Armory Club, Sullivan won a popular decision. Another twelve-round tussle will also be arranged.

Tommy Drew of Lawrance and Charley Warren, who hails from New York, will box eight rounds. George Chapman of Dorchester and Kid Renault of the South End are down to travel the six-round distance.

McKECHNIE MAY PLAY WITH PIRATES THIS YEAR

Pittsburgh, Feb. 2.—Bill McKechnie, a training camp member of the Braves in 1913, and since then with the Yankees, Reds and Federal League may be with the Pirates once more. Bill started his big league career under Fred Clarke here some ten years ago. George Gibson, manager of the Pittsburgh club, was a teammate of Bill's in those days and it is said on good authority that the Pirates' new boss has tendered a contract to the former third sacker.

FANS CRITICIZE HOCKEY TEAMS

George V. Brown Put on Pan for Selecting Many B. A. A. Players

By CHARLES E. PARKER.

The sweet singers of hockey fandom—sometimes called "the anvil chorus"—already have joined in lusty serenade of George V. Brown, secretary of the B. A. A., and N. A. A. A., selector of the proposed All-Boston hockey team, which is to meet the Pittsburgh A. A. in a series of games for the winner of which will represent the United States in the Olympic hockey series at Antwerp, Belgium.

In all, twenty-one candidates were named. Of the number, eight were drawn from the B. A. A.; five from the Dartmouth Club, four from the Harvard Club, one from the Yankee Division, and three unattached players completed the list.

The list of players selected follows:

Team A—Downing, B. A. A.; Hatchinson, B. A. A.; Percy, Harvard Club; Rice, B. A. A.; O'Sullivan, B. A. A.; Tuck, Dartmouth Club; LaCroix, B. A. A.; Donahue, Dartmouth Club.

Team B—Aylward, unattached; Holmes, Dartmouth Club; Murphy, Dartmouth Club; Sands, Yan ee Division; Geran, B. A. A.; Bright, Harvard Club; Skilton, unattached; Wendell, B. A. A.; Small unattached; Mueshke, Dartmouth Club; Wylde, Harvard Club; Buttrick, B. A. A.

FRED FULTON TO REST UP FOR BOUT AT A. A. A.

Fred Fulton is due to arrive in Boston late today. The Minneapolis giant wants to get a good rest before he meets John Lester Johnson of this city in a twelve-round bout at Mechanics Building tomorrow night under the direction of the Armory A. A.

Johnson states he will enter the ring weighing 190 pounds. He declares he is in splendid condition and that he will rely on his body blows wearing Fulton down. Johnson seems sure that his crouch will make it impossible for Fulton to score with many left jabs.

EXPECT RECORD CROWD AT ARMORY A. A. BOUT

The largest crowd to ever see a bout in Boston is expected to see the Fulton-Johnson bout at Mechanics Building tomorrow night. There has been a big advance sale. There has not been an increase in the regular assessment of $1, $2 and $3.

COMMERCIAL A. A. HAS FINE ALL-STAR CARD

The Commercial A. C. has a banner all-star card for the show Friday night. It follows: Billy Fitzsimmons vs. Tommy Regan, Shaver O'Brien vs. Nate Segal, Teddy Murphy and Freddie Madden, all at ten rounds, and Mike Lyons and Matty Sullivan at six rounds.

TERRY BROOKS WANTS TO HEAR FROM MUGGSY

Terry Brooks, West End welterweight, would like to know why Muggsy Muggsy maintains such a silence. Brooks has been challenging Muggsy for a week without much success. Battling Terrance avers that he is beginning to believe that Muggsy is not the most courageous battler in the world. The West End scrapper is about fifteen pounds lighter than the happy king of the Noddle Island district, but he nevertheless believes he would be able to conquer Clarence Flim's puncher.

WALTER BUTLER TO MEET PADDY FLYNN AT LYNN

Walter Butler, Revere welterweight, will return to the ring tonight, at Lynn, when he clashes with Paddy Flynn of Everett, in a twelve-round bout at the Casino A. C. Butler and Flynn have already engaged in several spirited battles and some interesting milling is looked for this p. m. A peppery preliminary card has also been arranged.

INDOOR GOLFERS GOING STRONG

Hemp Greens and Plush Bunkers Variously Damaged by Ambitious Players

By ROBERT E. HARLOW.

Very little turf was taken on Massachusetts golf courses last week and few lost balls were recovered, but plenty of yarn and hemp was torn from mats and more than one ball had to be fished out from under the kitchen stove. The fairways and putting greens are covered by one of the finest snow blankets spread in many years, but it is always possible to pick a most clean off a Turkish rug and drop it dead beneath the rubber plant in the front hallway.

Many golfers persist in having their swing at the ball, and while the turf is spared, the rug has to suffer. Many golfers are working out their enthusiasm in the numerous indoor golf schools, which are keeping professionals busy. The canvas bunkers are taking a terrific beating, and green plush putting greens are being worn thin as a result of some after foursome plods over the undulating oakum.

B. A. A. Indoor Course Longest in Boston.

Tom Fuller, professional at the indoor school at the Boston Athletic Association, hopes to have an exhibition match there before long. The B. A. A. course is the longest indoor course in Boston. When the back tees are used there is a reach of sixty feet to the canvas, which gives the ball opportunity of indicating with some degree of certainty if it is to be a slice, a hook or a straight one.

While the B. A. A. fairway is the best in Boston, the Bowler-Vinton course and the Boston Golf shop have better putting greens. These greens have been made to resemble the real thing in the insertion, having the green plush surface, of oakum.

Chick Evans Back at Desk in Chicago.

Chick Evans is back at his desk in Chicago after an attack of influenza. Evans was very sick, but shook off the malady and is now gathering strength for next Summer when he will endeavor to regain some of his old form.

Chick, and a number of other prominent Chicago district golfers, have written a memorial of daylight saving. Evans says the additional hour of daylight was the greatest boost golf ever had.

Duncan Brilliant as Versatile Player.

As George Duncan, the Scottish golfer, is scheduled to play in the United States some this year, the following comment, in the London Observer, is of interest.

"George Duncan is at times the most brilliant and versatile golfer in the world. He has at his command a delicate knack of breaking down, physically and temperamentally, at the critical stages. Duncan is a temperamental golfer; he is so highly strung that his nerves react in a physical sense. Until he can overcome this disability the championship will elude him."

Bay State Golfers to Be Busy in South.

Present indication is that at least sixty Massachusetts golfers will be in the south for the important tournaments which open with the Spring event at Pinehurst. For the North and South amateur it is probable that fifteen of the leading amateur golfers of the State will tee up.

The representation is sure to be the strongest Massachusetts ever had in this event and it is a good thing that such is the situation for the competition from other sections will be the keenest ever on hand for the championship.

Providence Club Publishes Winners.

The Metacomet Golf Club of Providence, the livest golfing organization in Rhode Island, as well as in a more extended territory, has issued a bulletin, which contains a list of the deeds of its members in the 1919 season, as well as notes of interest to the club members. Among he players mentioned are:

Ralph Rooks—Winner Springfield open, Worcester open, Wannamoisett open, Metacomet Club championship and others. Elizabeth Gordon—won Women's State championship. Dan Fairchild—Won State championship and Stockbridge open. Glenna Collett—Won prizes in various parts of country.

Thomas Logan to Travel With Ouimet.

Thomas Logan will be Francis Ouimet's traveling companion in this 1920 golfing journeys, as he was in 1919. How far they will go is not definitely known at this time, but it is possible they will go as far as Great Britain for the amateur and open championships which have been conveniently scheduled for June, the amateur probably being held the 6th and the open the week of the 20th.

Working on European Trip for Golfers.

Now that the dates of the British open and amateur are practically settled upon, a Boston tourist agent is working up a golfers' tour which will land the patrons in England in time to play it or witness the two tournaments, and will include a tour to the battlefields of Europe.

The agent figures that a tour which would land his party on the other side early in June and back in America early in July, with the amateur and open championships and a tour of the battlefields as the attractions, would be mighty attractive to golfers who desire to play abroad or witness the American golfing invasion.

Golf Galleries Must Be Regulated.

Golf galleries must be better regulated this year than ever before for the crowds are sure to be larger. Last year there were unhappy incidents at the championships. At Brae Burn, the gallery which followed Hagen and Hutchinson was so wrapped up in Hagen's effort to tie Ouimet it did not give Jock the proper quiet to play his shots, and it also got in the way of John Cowan who was playing directly behind Hagen and Hutchinson, and until the last nine holes, when he was annoyed by the gallery ahead of him, had a chance to win.

Studies Elocution to Make Grid Team

Little Arthur Conlon, quarterback on the Harvard second football team, is to start taking elocution lessons this week to help him make the varsity next fall. Conlon's weight of 145 pounds was somewhat of a handicap the past fall, but in the sight of Jimmie Knox the lynx eyed coach of the second team, Art needs better diction more than anything else.

GOLF MADE BY UNCERTAINTY

Mistakes Not Always Those of Beginner, Declares Open Champion

By WALTER C. HAGEN, Open Golf Champion.

Golf at its best is a peculiar game. If it wasn't so uncertain perhaps we would not be half so interested in pursuing the little white ball from the tee to the cup, or from the bunkers to the trap. Just when we think that we have solved the mystery something goes wrong and we are in complete darkness again, deeper than ever.

It is not always the duffer or the beginner that suffers those relapses as like pro, too, can have a bad streak and develop faults that are very troublesome. With him it is even more vexatious, as he is expected to know what is wrong and unravel the mystery by himself.

Experienced Golfers Often Go Astray.

Take the case of some of our amateur champions who have battled for years with the pros and held their own in any kind of trouble. They often times go astray at most unexpected moments develop kinks in their game that are very annoying. If one of these relapses should happen just before a big championship their chances are ruined.

Friendly Feeling Among Pros.

There is great friendly feeling among the pros. I have seen many of them go off their game and ask advice from each other. It is always given willingly and with the best of interest. No pro hesitates to ask his opponent or his partner, as it more frequently is, to straighten him out on a shot now and then. No one can diagnose a fault as quickly as someone looking on if that someone is a capable judge of an expert teacher.

Lessons Necessary for Beginner.

If you are just beginning the game it would be necessary to take a course of lessons from a pro. They need not be taken all at once but should be mixed in with a little play now and then so one can keep tabs on his progress. It is easy enough to hang out the distress signal if going badly. A certain amount of instruction in the manner of the regular club is necessary. Get started right and it will save a lot of trouble in the end.

Tournament Play Big Aid to Tyro.

My advice to beginners is to start playing in tournaments as soon as possible and never play a round unless there is a match or prize posted on the game. I don't mean that it should be made a gambling proposition where a lot of money changes hands, but enough of a stake should be put up to make one play carefully and take a keen interest in playing each shot.

THIS is the anniversary of the creation of the territory of Illinois in 1809, with Kaskaskea as its capital. April Folly

By Cynthia Stockley

A Brilliant New Film Romance With Marion Davies

Watch for This Story in Motion Pictures

"April Folly," soon to be seen in leading motion picture theatres, is a Cosmopolitan production, released through Famous Players-Lasky Corporation as a Paramount-Artcraft picture, direction of Robert Z. Leonard.

The Story to Date

Lady Diana Sandilands, bound for South Africa, manages to lose her chaperone before the train leaves London and, meeting a charming but poor girl, April Poole, in the railway carriage, persuades her to exchange identities with her for the period of the voyage only. They go on board and April finds th. adventure delightful.

HER eyes were so blurred with tears that she did not notice at what particular moment another occupant had usurped the chair of Major Earle. It was a man this time. April hastily seized a book and began to read. He must have stolen up with the silence of a tiger, and he reminded her of tigers, somehow, though she could not quite tell why, except that he was curiously powerful and graceful looking.

His hair, which grew in a thick, short mat, was strongly sprinkled with silver, but his skin, though brick-red, was unlined. She judged him to be a sailorman, for he had the clear and innocent eyes of one who has looked long on great spaces. These were her conclusions made while diligently reading her book. He, too, was busy reading in the same fashion, but, manlike, was slower in his deductions.

By the time she had finished with his hair, he had not got much further than her ankles. Certainly, he had ascertained that she was a pretty woman before he took possession of his chair, but that was merely instinct, the fulfilling of a human law. Detail, like destruction was to come after. He lingered over the first detail. They were such very pretty ankles. It did not seem right that they should be resting on the hard deck instead of on a canvas foot-rest. He remembered that his own chair had a foot-rest, but it was in his cabin. Should he go and fetch it? Dared he offer it to her? He was on half-fellow-well-met terms with lions and tigers, as April had curiously divined, but having enjoyed fewer encounters with women, was slightly shy of them.

However, being not really courageous, he might presently have been observed emerging from a deck-cabin with a canvas foot-rest in his hand, and if that was only the natural sequence of events that, while attempting to hitch it on his chair, his guileless gaze should discover that April's feet were without support.

He looked so shy and kind for such a sun-bitten, weather-hardened creature that she had no heart to refuse friendly offer, even had she felt the inclination. Besides, the advances made to her by the rude Lady Diana Veron, very different from those she had so often been obliged to repulse as April Poole.

CLEANED THE POISONS FROM HIS SYSTEM

A MASSACHUSETTS MAN GRATEFUL.

Somerville, Mass. A well-filled citizen of this city, who has suffered in the past, writes the following to Dr. J. F. True & Co.:—

"I have taken all kinds of laxatives, but none of it cleaned the poisons from my system as your Elixir—will know what to use hereafter considering the effects it had on me, as I feel splendid now—all my system needed was a real cleansing which only your Elixir gave—other physics I have taken merely passed through my bowels." "Will You Be Mine?"

A Leap Year Rehearsal with Brother's Clothes

THE CINEMA MURDER

By E. Phillips Oppenheim

"AT the end of those three years," she went on, "Sylvanus Power had become richer, stronger, more masterful than ever. I was beginning to lose heart. He was clever. He studied my every weakness. He knew quite well that with me there was only one way, and he laid his schemes with regard to me just in the same fashion as he schemed to be a conqueror of men, to build up those millions. We were playing near New York and one day he asked me to motor in there and lunch with him. I accepted. It was in the springtime, almost on such a day as this. We motored up in one of his wonderful cars. We lunched—I remember how shabby I felt—at the best restaurant in New York, where I was waited upon like a queen. Somehow or other, the man had always the knack of making himself felt wherever he went. He strode the very streets of New York like one of its masters and the people seemed to recognize it. Afterwards he took me into Broadway, and he ordered the car to stop outside the theatre where I am now playing. I looked at it, and I remember I gave a little cry of interest.

New Theatre

"'This is the new theatre that everyone is talking about, isn't it?' I asked him eagerly.

"'It is,' he answered. 'Would you like to see inside?'

"Of course, I was half crazy with curiosity. The doors flew open before him, and he took me everywhere. You know yourself what a magnificent place it is—that marvelous stage, the auditorium all in dark green satin, the seats like armchairs, the dressing rooms like boudoirs—the wonderful spaciousness of it! It took my breath away. I had never imagined such splendor. When we had finished looking over the place he said: 'I clutched his arm.

"'I can't believe that it isn't some sort of fairy palace!' I exclaimed. 'And to think that no one knows who owns the place or whether it is going to be opened!'

"'I'll tell you all about that,' he answered. 'I built it. I own it, and it will be opened just when you accept my offer and play in it.'

"It all seemed too amazing. For a time I couldn't speak coherently. Then I remember thinking that whatever happened, whatever price I had to pay, I must stand upon the stage of that theatre and win. My lips were quite dry. His great voice seemed to have faded into a whisper.

"'Your offer?' I repeated.

"'Yourself,' he answered gruffly.'

There was a silence which seemed to Philip interminable. All the magic of the place had passed away, its music seemed no longer to be singing happiness into his heart. Then at last he realized that she was waiting for him to speak.

Had a Wife

"He wanted—to marry you?" he faltered.

"He had a wife already."

Sflash!. John was throwing stones into the lake, a pastime of which he was getting a little tired. A huge thrush was thinking about commencing to build his nest, and in the meantime sat upon a fallen log across the way and sang about it. A little tree-climbing bird ran round and round the trunk of the nearest elm, staring at them, every time he appeared, with his tiny black eyes.

"Philip!" she cried. "Say anything, but speak to me."

She drew herself up. She spoke absolutely without faltering.

"I accepted Sylvanus Power's terms," she went on. "He placed large sums of money in Fuhl's hands to run the theatre. There was a wonderful opening. You were not interested then or you might have heard of it. I produced a new play of Clyde Fitch's. It was a great triumph. The house was packed. Sylvanus Power sat in his box. It was to be his night. Through it all I fought like a woman in a nightmare. I didn't know what it meant. I knew hundreds of women who had done in a small way what I was prepared to do magnificently.

"In all my acquaintance I think that I scarcely knew one who had refused to do what I was doing. And all the time I was in a state of fierce revolt. I had moments when my life's ambitions, when New York itself, the Mecca of my dreams, and, that marvellous theatre, with its marble and silk, seemed suddenly to dwindle to a miserable, contemptible little doll's house. And then again I played, and I felt my soul as I played, and the old dreams swept over me, and I said that it wasn't anything to do with personal vanity that made me crave for the big gifts of success; that it was my art, and that I must find myself in my art or die."

The blood was flowing in his veins again. She was coming back to him. He was ashamed—he with his giant load of sin! His voice trembled with tenderness.

"Go on," he begged.

Heart Craving

"I think that the reason I played that night as though I were inspired was because of the great passionate craving at my heart for forgetfulness, to shut out the memory of that man who sat there gloomily alone in his box waiting. And then, after it was all over, the wonder and glory of it, he appeared suddenly in my dressing room, elbowing his way through excited journalists, kicking bouquets of flowers from his path. We stood for a moment face to face. He came nearer. I shrank away. I was handling to push the thing I said from me. He looked at me in cold surprise.

"'Three minutes,' he exclaimed, 'to say good-by. I'm off to China. Brick at it. You've done well for a start, but remember a New York audience wants holding. Choose your plays carefully. Trust Fink.'

"'You're going away?' I almost shrieked.

He glanced at his watch, leaned over and kissed me on the forehead.

"'I'll barely make that boat,' he muttered, and rushed out." • • •

Philip was breathless. The strange, untold passion of the whole was coming to him in waves of wonderful suggestion.

"'Finish'" he cried impatiently. "Finish!"

"'That is the end,' she said. 'I played for two years and a half, with scarcely a pause. Then I came to Europe for a rest and travelled back with you on the Ellenanis. Last night I saw Sylvanus Power again for the first time. Don't speak. My story is in two halves. That is the first. The second is just one question. That will come before we reach home. • • • John!'"

The man approached promptly—he was quite weary of throwing stones.

"Take us somewhere to lunch," his mistress directed, "and get back to New York at 6 o'clock."

The Lady's Bet

A young man took a lady acquaintance to a sleeplessness meeting, and she insisted on placing a bet on a dime. The hours grew worse than to come in last. He turned around and ran the other way.

"Well, you lose your bet," said he man. "The horse you had your money on is running the wrong way!"

"It shows that a woman's instinct don't go wrong!" she answered triumphantly. "I backed him both ways."

Te'ls of Suffering Greatly With Kidney and Bladder Trouble and How Balmwort Brought Relief.

Ter Letter Well Worth Reading

Mrs. Nellie McClinn, 609 East 138th street, New York City, writes:

"For the last year I had suffered greatly from Kidney and Bladder trouble, distressing pain in the back and hips, with rheumatic twinges and frequent severe headache, accompanied by nervousness, chills, and fever; also a frequent desire to eliminate, a smarting, burning sensation, with pain in the region of the bladder. I would frequently have to arise at night, my sleep being disturbed by the pressure and inflammation in bladder. Beginning the use of Balmwort Tablets I noticed almost instant relief, and continuing to use them I am now totally well and relieved of all pain and distress from which I suffered. I am glad to recommend Balmwort Tablets as a reliable, beneficial medicine and trust others may find relief and freedom from pain and distress as I did, etc."

The above letter is a true statement and is on file in our offices. Balmwort Tablets bring relief when other medicine has failed. Sold by leading druggists, $1.00 per tube.—Advertisement.

When a Woman's Teeth Are Most in Danger

The quality of the saliva has much to do with the condition of the teeth. Before the baby comes, and immediately thereafter, it undergoes a change, and often the mother finds herself with sensitive gums and loosening teeth.

This condition is temporary, and need not be mistaken for the onset of pyorrhea. Miss Della Spellman, a nurse at the State Hospital, New York, with years of experience, advises the gentle use of the tooth brush twice a day with a preparation free from irritating drugs, and gum massage by finger. She recommends Albodon Dental Cream, knowing it is both effective and safe and fully meets all requirements of women and children.

A tube holding 85 brushfuls can be bought guaranteed at any drug store. Albodon is calcium carbonate, saponified and mixed with the well-known antiseptic oils of cloves, cinnamon and eucalyptus, which authorities declare is best for women and children.—Advertisement.

The Two Voices

Novel of American Life With a Rich Man's Son as Hero

By Virginia Terhune Van de Water

"NOT fair, dear, perhaps, yet that is one of the consequences that one pays for loving. I sometimes think it is the highest price we pay for love—that of suffering with our loved ones. And you must try to remember that you are making life seem worth while for Hugh in spite of his blindness. That ought to make you very proud."

Doris stood up suddenly. "Well, it doesn't," she said dully. "Ruth, it was awful after you came away just now."

Her Idea of Love

"But you did not show it, did you? and"—she hesitated and swallowed hard before finishing her question—"you kissed him good-bye, didn't you?"

Doris nodded. "I kissed him on the forehead, and he caught me in his arms and kissed me until I thought I should scream. Oh," with a shudder, "I tried not to see his awful blank eyes."

Ruth was very pale. Doris' words shocked and sickened her.

"You will become accustomed to his changed appearance, my dear. We must be going now," starting out into the hall.

"But I want you to tell me what happened when you were upstairs with Hugh," Doris said suddenly. "You have not yet explained why you called me by your name when I first went up there, and later spoke to Hugh as if you had just arrived. Really, Ruth, I do think some explanation is due me."

"Certainly it is," her sister agreed guardedly, that her voice might not penetrate to the upper room. "And I will tell you all about it later. At present I do not feel like talking."

Very quietly, she opened the front door and the two girls went out together.

They walked home in silence, something in Ruth's bearing warned Doris not to talk.

Mrs. Courtney was lunching with a friend today—a fact that Ruth recalled gratefully. For a few hours she need listen to no questions from her mother, nor reply to them.

The sisters had their luncheon as if nothing had happened. They talked little during the meal and were in Ruth's room before Doris asked the question what had been in her mind ever since she left the Turner house.

"What did you tell Hugh?" she demanded now, standing in front of her sister. "Were you able to make him understand why I left him so suddenly—how badly I felt at the change in his looks?"

"I did not try to," Ruth answered bluntly. "Why should I have told him like that? No—I gave him to understand that you are going to be with him as much as possible."

A Selfish Fiancee

"You promised him that?" Doris exclaimed incredulously. "Why—you had no right in the world to let him think that. I had told you to tell him any such thing."

"I did not give it as a message from you," Ruth informed her. "It was an assertion. For, Doris, I pretended that I was you. He does not know yet that you were not the person who comforted him.

"He called me 'Doris.' He was very happy at thinking that you were there.

"So it is as if you—not I—had been with him. He shall never guess it was not. And you will have to do what he believes you are going to do, dear."

"You actually had the courage," Doris said as if trying to make herself understand the situation. "—you actually had the courage to go through with the pretence that you were? Now I see why you made believe that it was 'Ruth' coming upstairs. At first it seemed to me as if you were a bit crazy. Why"—with a hysterical giggle—"how did you dare? I think it was awfully funny and clever, for really, my dear, at that time I was so upset that I was absolutely unable to endure talking to him."

"Hist, you feel differently now?" Ruth demanded.

She had not smiled at Doris' mirth and her manner sobered her companion. The older girl looked at her fixedly.

"I am not at all sure that I feel differently now," she said. "To be honest—I wish Hugh had stayed in Minneapolis."

This Tells You How to Get Benefit of the Best Senna

Finest Grade of Egyptian Senna Leaves used in compounding Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

PROMINENT importers and wholesale dealers in crude drugs and medicinal herbs gathered from all parts of the world do not hesitate to say that the market for the better grades of medicinal herbs, roots, oils, etc., is practically confined to the leading manufacturers of the so-called package medicines, who buy only the very best, and that the manufacturers of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin are the largest users of the best grade of Egyptian senna leaves in the world.

The efficiency of a tea brewed from senna leaves to relieve constipation has long been recognized, not only by the medical profession, but by the public generally; in fact, senna has been known and used as a medicine for more than five centuries. The cheaper grades of senna, such as are usually sold at retail, have, however, a tendency to gripe and cramp which makes their use unpopular with most people.

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin the finest Egyptian senna is combined with pepsin and other valuable agents, essential oils and pure cane sugar syrup to make an exceptionally valuable tonic-laxative for the relief of constipation and the multitude of ills arising from the stomach and bowels. The complete formula is plainly printed in English, French, and Spanish on every package. Thousands who formerly bought an inferior grade of senna leaves now buy Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin instead. It is sold in drug stores everywhere.

In spite of the fact that Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the largest selling liquid laxative in the world, there being over 6 million bottles sold each year, many who need its benefits have not yet used it. If you have not, send your name and address for a free trial bottle to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 211 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois.

STAY ON THE WATER WAGON!

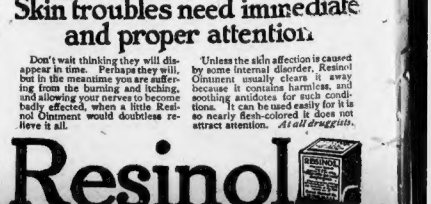
If You Are One, Who Has Quit Indulging in Strong Drink.

Cadomene Tablets Will Help You Over the Rough Period.

Cadomene Tablets are helpful to weak nerves. Weak, faulty nerves often come from strong drink. Sometimes the system is impoverished by excesses of one kind or another, such as poor digestion and faulty nutrition. Overwork, anxiety, and even grief causes abnormal nervous conditions. The strength of body declines. The strength of will power wanes. Nervousness and sleeplessness causes further weakness and loss of vitality. Years of faithful practice taught a great physician that the formula now used to make Cadomene Tablets would surely build up the health of his patients. Now anyone can take this great medicine if needed. Mr. G. A. Hoover, R. R. No. 1, Reading, Pa., writes: "I am taking Cadomene Tablets with very gratifying results. Nervousness, overwork, and sleeplessness are my complaints."

Mr. Joe. N. Herndon, 1645 Twenty-fifth st., Sacramento, Cal., writes: "I am using Cadomene Tablets and find a great improvement has been brought about in two days."

Every package is guaranteed satisfactory to the purchaser.—Advertisement.



Skin troubles need immediate and proper attention

Don't wait thinking they will disappear in time. Perhaps they will, but in the meantime you are suffering from the burning and itching, and allowing your nerves to become badly effected, when a little Resinol Ointment would doubtless relieve it all.

Unless the skin affection is caused by some internal disorder, Resinol Ointment usually clears it away because it contains harmless, and soothing antidotes for such conditions. It can be used easily for it is so nearly flesh-colored it does not attract attention. At all druggists.

The Valley of the Giants

Thrilling Romance in Which a Girl Helps Win a Big Logging Fight

By Peter B. Kyne

"YOU'VE got me into this fight by buying Cardigan bonds for me," she replied meaningly, "and I look to you to save the investment or as much of it as possible; for certainty, if it should develop that the Cardigans are the real promoters of the N. C. O., to permit them to go another half-million dollars into debt in a forlorn hope of saving a company already top-heavy with indebtedness wouldn't savor of common business sense. Would it?"

A Comfort to Him

The Colonel rose hastily, came around the table, and kissed her paternally. "My dear," he murmured, "you're such a comfort to me. Upon my word, you are."

Shirley thrust out her adorable chin aggressively. "Stick 'em Tight!" she answered. "Shake 'em up, boy!"

"You bet I'll shake 'em up," the Colonel declared joyously. He paused with a morsel of food on his fork and waved the fork at her aggressively. "You stimulate me into activity, Shirley. My mind has been singularly dull of late; I have worried unnecessarily, but now that I know you are with me, I am inspired. I'll tell you how we'll fix this new railroad, if it exhibits signs of being dangerous." Again he smote the table. "We'll sew 'em up tighter than a new buttonhole."

"Do tell me how," she pleaded eagerly.

"I'll block them on their franchise to run over the city streets of Sequoia."

"How?"

"By making the mayor and the city council see things my way," he answered dryly. "Furthermore, in order to enter Sequoia, the N. C. O. will have to cross the tracks of the Laguna Grande Lumber Company's line on Water street—make a jump crossing—and I'll enjoin them and hold them up in the courts till the cows come home."

"Uncle Seth, you're a wizard."

"Well, at least I'm no slouch at looking after my own interests—and yours, Shirley. In the midst of peace we should be prepared for war. You've met Mayor Poundstone and his lady, haven't you?"

"I had tea at her house last week."

"Good news. Suppose you invite her and Poundstone here for dinner some night this week. Just a quiet, little family dinner, Shirley, and after dinner you can take Mrs. Poundstone upstairs, on some pretext or other, while I sound Poundstone out on his attitude toward the N. C. O. They haven't asked for a franchise yet; at least, the Sentinel hasn't printed a word about it; but when they do, of course the franchise will be advertised for sale to the highest bidder. Naturally, I don't want to bid against them; they might run the price up on me and leave me with a franchise on my hands—something I do not want, because I have no use for the blamed thing myself. I feel certain, however, I can find some less expensive means of keeping them out of it—say by convincing Poundstone and a majority of the city council that the N. C. O. is not such a public asset as its promoters claim for it. Hence I think it wise to sound the situation out in advance, don't you, my dear?"

She nodded. "I shall attend to the matter, Uncle Seth."

Five minutes after dinner was over, Shirley joined her uncle in the library and announced that His Honor the Mayor and Mrs. Poundstone would be delighted to dine day night.

CHAPTER XXIV.

TO return to Bryce Cardigan: Having completed his preliminary plans to build the N. C. O., Bryce had returned to Sequoia, prepared to sit quietly on the sidelines and watch his peppery henchman Buck Ogilvy go into action. The more Bryce considered that young man's fitness for the position he occupied, the more satisfied did he become with his decision. While he had not been in touch with Ogilvy for several years, he had known him intimately at Princeton.

Ogilvy's return to Sequoia following his three-weeks' tour in search of right of way for the N. C. O. was heralded by a visit from him to Bryce Cardigan at the latter's office. As he breezed the counter in the general office, Moira McTavish left her desk and came over to see what the visitor desired.

"I should like to see Mr. Bryce Cardigan," Buck began in crisp businesslike accents. He was fumbling in his cardcase and did not look up until about to hand his card to Moira—when his mouth flew half open, the while he stared at her with consummate frankness. The girl's glance met his momentarily, then was lowered modestly; she took the card and carried it to Bryce.

Quite Sane

"Buck, are you losing your mind?" Bryce demanded.

"Losing it? I should say not. I've just lost it."

"I believe you. If you were quite sane, you wouldn't run the risk of being seen entering my office."

"Put-tut, old dear! None of that! Am I not the main-spring of the Northern California Oregon Railroad and privileged to run the destinies of that soulless corporation as I see fit?" He sat down, crossed his long legs, and jerked a speckled thumb toward the outer office. "I was sane when I came in here, but the eyes of the girl outside—oh, now, them eyes! I must be introduced to her. And you're scolding me for coming around here in broad daylight. Why, you duffer, if I come at night, d'ye suppose I'd have met her? Be sensible."

"You like Moira's eyes, eh?"

"I've never seen anything like them. Zounds, I'm afire. I have little prickly sensations, like ants running over me. How can you be insensate enough to descend to labor with an hourl like that around? Oh, man! To think of an angel like that working—to think of a brute like you making her work!"

"Certainly. Now come down to earth and render a report on your stewardship."

"I'll try. To begin, I've secured rights of way, at a cost of twelve thousand, one hundred and three dollars and nine cents, from the city limits in Township Nine. I've got my line surveyed, and so far as the building of the road is concerned, I know exactly what I'm going to do, and how and when I'm going to do it, once I get my material on the ground."

"What steps have you taken toward securing your material?"

"Well, I can close a favorable contract for steel rails with the Colorado Steel Products Company. Their schedules of deliveries is O. K. as far as San Francisco, but it's up to you to provide water transportation from there to Sequoia."

"We can handle the rails on our steam schooners. Next?"

"I have an option of a rattling good second-hand locomotive down at the Santa Fe shops, and the Hawkins & Barnes Construction Company have offered me a steam shovel, half a dozen flat-cars, and a lot of frames and scrapers at ruinous prices. This equipment is pretty well-worn, and they want to get rid of it before buying new stuff for their contract to build the Arizona and Sonora Central. However, it is first-rate equipment for us, because it will last until we're through with it; then we can scrap it for junk."

Buy or Rent Teams

"We can buy or rent teams from local citizens and get half of our labor locally. San Francisco employment bureaus will readily supply the remainder, and I have half a dozen fine boys on tap to boss the steam shovel, pile-driver, bridge-building gang, track-layer and construction gang. And as soon as you tell me how I'm to get my material ashore and out on the job, I'll order it and get busy."

"That's exactly where the shoe begins to pinch, Pennington's mainline tracks enter the city along Water street, with one spur into his log-dump and another out on his mill-dock. From the main-line tracks we also have built a spur through our drying-yard out to our log-dump and a switch-line out on to our mill-dock. We can unload our locomotive, steam shovel, and flat-cars on our own wharf, but unless Pennington gives us permission to use his main-line tracks out to a point beyond the city limits—where a Y will lead off to the point where our construction begins—we're up a stump."

"Suppose he refuses, Bryce. What then?"

"Why, we'll simply have to enter the city down Front street, paralleling Pennington's tracks on Water street, turning down H street, make a jump-crossing of Pennington's line on Water street, and connecting with the spur into our yard."

"Can't have an elbow turn at Front and H streets?"

"Don't have to. We own a square block on that corner, and we'll build across it, making a gradual turn."

Buck Warns

"See here, my son," Buck said solemnly, "is this your first adventure in railroad building?"

Bryce nodded.

"I thought so; otherwise you wouldn't talk so confidently of running your line over city streets and making jump-crossings on your competitor's road. If your competitor regards you as a menace to his pocketbook, he can give you a nice little run for your money and delay you indefinitely."

I realize that, Buck. That's why I'm not appearing in this railroad deal at all. If Pennington suspected I was back of it, he'd fight me before the city council and move heaven and earth to keep me out of a franchise to use the city streets and cross his line. Of course, since his main line runs on city property, under a franchise granted by the city, the city has a perfect right to grant me the privilege of making a jump-crossing of his line——"

"Will you be serious? That's the problem. If they will not, you're licked, my son, and I'm out of a job."

"We can see and condemn a right of way."

"Yes, but if the city council puts up a plea that it is against the best interests of the city to grant the franchise, you'll find that except in most extraordinary cases, the courts regard it as against public policy to give judgment against a municipality, the State or the Government of the United States. At any rate, they'll hang you up in the courts till you die of old age; and as I understand the matter, you have to have this line running in less than a year, or go out of business."

Bryce hung his head thoughtfully. "I've been no exclusure," he muttered presently. "I shouldn't have spent that twelve thousand for rights of way until I had settled the matter of the franchise."

RAILS FIRM IN DULL MARKET

Steels, Motors and Oils Yield After Making Gains at Start

By W. H. ROSS,
Financial Editor.

Stocks were weak in New York at noon, yielding to bear pressure after early strength and touching lowest prices in the second hour. Although they did not hold at their highest, rails remained a firm group. Union Pacific was an exception, being notably weak among carriers. Steels, motors, oils and equipments took part in the recessional. But losses did not average large. The market was dull and transactions thin. Sales transactions totalling but about 117,000 shares. Prices dropped when the call rate was announced. Money loaned and renewed at 14 per cent. There was not much shift in foreign exchange, but demand sterling opened a tit'le lower.

Weakest stocks were Crucible, Republic, General Motors, Studebaker, Texas Co., Mexican Petroleum, Pan-American, Baldwin, American Woolen, Hide and Leather preferred, Marine common and U. S. Rubber. They were off from one to more than four points at noon.

BEGAN WEEK WITH RISE.

The week began with an advance in prices, and there was some buying from the outside besides considerable short covering. The demand for stocks lasted about ten minutes, and after it ceased offerings were in sufficient volume to cause a little reaction. In half an hour the market was rather weak. It had rallied somewhat at the end of an hour, but the spurt of activity that marked the opening was over. Early gains were general, but the strength of rails were steels. First prices were from fractions to about two points above the week-end closing quotations. As has been usual of late trading was confined to a great extent to steels, oils, motors, equipments and scattered stocks. Rails had a good tone and were more in evidence. Coppers were given the go by. General Motors was the most active auto stock. Crucible and Republic were the prominent steels and Mexican Petroleum and Royal Dutch featured the oils, while Middle States was the weakest. Baldwin was among the most active issues.

TO CHANGE OVER SUNDAY.

No change in sentiment occurred over Sunday, and it was cheerful in most quarters. A good many bears are said to have shifted position. The market has shown more underlying strength than was expected, and many traders now look for an upward movement, although there are few who expect it at once. An agreement in Congress as to railroad legislation is expected, and will be a help. It is felt that if it takes much time for money rates to decline they are not likely to be further advanced. The market is liquidated and cleaned out, it is easier to put prices up than to send them down. There maintenance on a higher level has not been easy as yet, however. The New York bank statement was more favorable than looked for. One statement made this morning regarding brokers' loans is that they have been reduced 30 per cent since November. A bull influence of the moment is more general expectation of a favorable United States Supreme Court decision in the stock dividend case.

Cotton Market Opening

New York, Feb. 2.—The cotton market was more active at the opening and many of last Monday's short sellers, believing that the pressure then was speculative, tried to replace their lines. This caused a sharp upturn of 12 to 22 points, except November, which advanced 40 points. By the end of fifteen minutes all the improvement was wiped out and the undertone was heavy, with prices 2 points near lower. Spring active months were: May, 36.40; March, 36.05; May, 34.10; July, 31.50; October, 29.50; November, 29.40; December, 29.08.

Chicago Grain Market

Chicago, Feb. 2.—Corn opened steady to 1c higher; May, 1.57@1.57 1/8; July, 1.38 1/2@1.38 3/4. Provisions opened 2c to 10c lower. Opening prices were: Corn—May, 1.57@1.57 1/8; July, 1.38 1/2@1.38 3/4. Oats—May, 84 1/4@84 3/4. Pork—May, 28.85. Lard—May, 25.45; July, 28.85. Ribs—May, 20.50.

City Loans

Stamford, Ct., awarded to Old Colony Trust Company temporary loan of $100,000 in anticipation of taxes, at 5.35 per cent, discount plus $5 premium.

Webster, Mass., received bids Saturday for the purchase of a temporary loan of $14,000.

New York Sub-Treasury Loss

New York, Feb. 2.—The sub-treasury paid $150,000 to the banks on Saturday, making the cash net loss since Friday $627,000.

PRICE ADVANCE IN BOSTON

North Butte Strong Exchange Copper; Curb Oils Are Irregular

Prices were up on the Boston Stock Exchange at the outset, and the market stayed strong during the morning, although at the end of that period a number of leaders had lost part of their gains. Trading remained dull and had no particular feature, unless it was North Butte. It was comparatively active and advanced a point and a half before noon. American Telephone again sold at par. Packing issues had a rather weak tone. Western selling is said to be the main reason for their recent decline. Coppers were not in favor, business being confined to a few, and most of them receding a little.

Edison advanced a point during the forenoon and additionally higher issues included East Butte, New Haven, United Shoe, Cumberland Hill, Ohio Body and Waltham Watch.

Among stocks to decline a point were New England Telephone and Boston Elevated. Among those to show smaller losses were New Cornelia, Davis-Daly, Mohawk, Copper Range, National Leather, Swift & Co., Swift International and Pacific Mills.

Miami Copper sold ex-dividend. C. G. Galbo & Co. announce that Charles F. Winter and George W. Priest have been admitted to that firm.

CURB MARKET STARTS ACTIVE.

Trading was brisk on the Curb at the opening. Silver Leaf and Arizona Extension leading in activity. High priced oils were irregular. Among strong issues at the beginning were Arizona Extension, Pioneer and Gilliland. Weak ones were Cosden, Simms Petroleum, Silver Reef, Seven Metals, Imperial and Orpheum.

At the end of an hour gains included Gilliland 1⅞ at 4⅛, and Arizona Extension 2 cents at 13 cents. Among declines were Simms Petroleum 1⅜ at 50½, Silver Leaf 6 cents at 26 cents and Pilarim 2 cents at 27 cents. Arizona Tip Top at 4 and White Oil at 36 were unchanged.

JOSEF HOFMANN IN RECITAL

Pianist Delights Music Lovers at Symphony Hall in Well Chosen Program

Shivering Boston gave Josef Hofmann, eminent pianist, a warm reception yesterday afternoon in Symphony Hall, when he presented a carefully chosen program that was a delight as it proved charming in its capable hands. Encores that literally amounted to ovations greeted the more popular numbers and Mr. Hofmann was especially generous with his responses.

The announced program was opened with the sonata in C major, op. 53 (Beet). followed by Soiree en Grenade (Debussy) and Perpetuum mobile (Weber). The next group included Chopin's Ballade in F major, value in A-flat major, op. 42. Impromptu in g-flat major and Polonaise in A major. Penguine, East and West and The Sanctuary, all by Dvorak, which were presented, and the formal program was concluded with "The Blue" valse, Strauss-Godowsky.

Josef Hofmann always is welcome to Boston, and from the enthusiasm

Fight 2 Fires in Zero Air at Lexington

Lexington, Feb. 2. — Two still alarms for fires within less than an hour and a half kept the Lexington firemen on the jump in the below-zero air. The first call gave the firemen a long run of more than a mile to the residence of Alex Ohlson, at No. 12 Reed street, North Lexington, for a chimney fire caused by an overheated furnace. A slight fire in a restaurant on Grade Mill lane, caused by the explosion of alcohol, was the reason for the second alarm.

With which he presented yesterday's program it may be judged that Boston Symphony audiences hold a warm place in his own heart.

Wool Shipments

Shipments of wool from Boston this year to close of Thursday last totaled 15,568,000 pounds compared with 7,826,651 pounds for the corresponding period a year ago, while receipts amounted to 16,148,595 pounds against 21,827,626.

CARDINAL LAUDS K. C. WAR WORK

Prelate Is Tendered Reception by Members of Boston Chapter

High tribute to the members of the Knights of Columbus for the work they accomplished during the world war was paid by Cardinal O'Connell at a reception given in his honor by Boston Chapter, K. of C., in the hall of the Boston College high school.

"To America," said the Cardinal, "who in this troublous time is looking anxiously toward the future, you stand as the potent promise of a great steadying influence. Today, more than ever, America needs men of fidelity, and honor, and loyalty, and courage, and unselfish devotion. America needs such men today, and such men when they are true to the pledge they have given, the Knights of Columbus are."

Boston chapter is a delegation of forty-seven councils of metropolitan Boston. Francis A. McLaughlin, chairman of the chapter, presided.

What Can Be Done With a 5-Cent Fare and Brains

Nine years ago Philadelphia's street car service was atrocious. Equipment had run down. The men were underpaid and mutinous. Public opinion was hostile. The company was losing money.

Since 1916 a dividend of 5 per cent. has been earned and paid, a $1,000,000 deficit has been converted into a surplus of $4,500,000, the average yearly wage of the employe, $622 in 1910, is now $1,581; the equipment has been greatly improved, extra costs have been met, and the car-riding habit has increased 47 per cent. Where the average Philadelphian rode 288 times a year in 1910 he now rides 425 times.

How has this remarkable change been brought about?

By intelligent management and by co-operation.

All conditions of employment, including hours and wages, are determined by joint committees, one-half made up of representatives of the management, the other half by secret ballot of the employes. In addition 99.51 per cent. of the company's 10,000 employes are organized into a co-operative welfare association. The members pay dues and the company adds two dollars to the members' one.

In the fifteen months ended November 30 last this association paid $1,000 life insurance on each of 174 members' policies, also 1,517 sick benefits totalling $69,963, and pensions at the rate of $46,560 a year to ninety-seven employes who had reached the retirement age.

There has more recently been established a savings fund, to which 60 per cent. of the employes are contributors at the rate of more than $600,000 a year.

That this co-operation is genuine seems proved by the fact that more trainmen were required in 1910 to take in $19,000,000 than were needed in 1919 to collect $36,000,000. While the company was increasing its gross receipts 89 per cent., the men's earnings increased 151 per cent. and their efficiency increased 120 per cent. as measured in production.

In four years the number of children of school age killed by street cars was reduced from an average of twenty-six per year to four. This growth in safety has been accomplished by the organization of "safety patrols" in schools, the elder children being taught to safeguard the younger. Motormen report localities in which very small children are permitted by careless parents to play in the streets. Then a company agent visits the mothers to warn them, and afterward organizes a community movement for safer playgrounds.

The "Philadelphia Plan" of traction operation thus brings better wages, better service, greater safety and more travel, with profit to the company, but IT DOES NOT SEEK TO RAISE THE FARE. President T. E. Mitten of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company, under whose management these results have been achieved, recently said to the City Council:

The five-cent fare is almost a religion with us. It must not be increased.

A Record Worth Making

Copyright, 1920, Star Company.

Announcement has been made that the banner city of the United States in employment activities for returned soldiers is Los Angeles.

The bureau in that city has found work for more than fifteen thousand men who came back from fighting for their country and found themselves in want of a job.

No service man was required to spend a nickel for the help rendered, and the total cost of the bureau and all its activities averaged only 17½ cents per man put to work.

Such interest in the returned fighting men and such activities in their behalf are in marked distinction to the lack of interest and the absence of action in Congress to give these same men any evidence of national appreciation of what they risked and bore and did that this country might make good its declaration that it stood for the freedom of the world and the peace of its peoples.

So far $60 represents our national gratitude to the individual soldier. And that $60 is not even keeping him warm. Hundreds of men who were overseas were more comfortable in the camps there than they are facing the Winter weather of this season without sufficient clothing. We pitied them when they were over there. We ought to supplement pity with generosity now that they are on home shores.

Like Father Like Son—

Sometimes, but Not Often

Copyright, 1920, Star Company.

Nothing more interesting than heredity. Fathers and mothers all should read Galton's book on the subject. Why is it that great fathers so rarely give their qualities to their sons? How many cases in history can you mention of inherited greatness? There was Philip of Macedonia and his son, Alexander. But the son eclipsed the father. The two Pitts were about equal in greatness, and their tomb in Westminster Abbey probably DOES contain the world's most striking example of successful father and son.

Filippo Lippi and his son, Filippino, were both real artists. Filippino's teacher, Botticelli, helped. Wagner's son looked and acted like a musician, but did not sound like one.

Now the United States is considering two interesting cases, Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., starting with firm step in the direction of the White House, and Bob Fitzsimmons, Jr., endeavoring to fight the ring as his father used to do. Young Mr. Fitzsimmons LOOKS like his father; young Mr. Roosevelt to a certain extent SOUNDS like his father.

The question is, Will either of them BE like his father and fight like his father?

Can They Scare Him?

More Truth Than Poetry

When the Day's Work Is Done

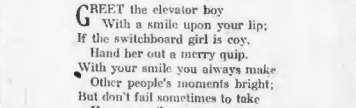
By S. E. KISER

DON'T forget sometimes to take
Home a smile or two at night;
If the profits that you make
Do not bring you much delight,
Why take home a bunch of care?
It's a foolish thing to do;
Park your trouble out somewhere,
And take home a smile or two.

WHEN the sweet stenographer
Treats you to a friendly glance,
Bravely you smile back at her,
Happy to have had the chance;
And the pretty little clerk,
When your purchases are made,
Finds new pleasure in her work
For the smile you have displayed.

WHEN the boss invites you in,
Leaving other things to wait,
You approach him with a grin,
Or with hope, at any rate,
And through all the day you find,
Or you do, if you are wise,
That it pays to be inclined
To keep twinkles in your eyes.

GREET the elevator boy
With a smile upon your lip;
If the switchboard girl is coy,
Hand her out a merry quip.
With your smile you always make
Other people's moments bright;
But don't fail sometimes to take
Home a smile or two at night.



HARD TO GET A START.

One trouble with the ladder of success is that somebody is always kicking the rungs out at the bottom.

DWINDLING.

The dollar that formerly seemed to be as big as the head of a barrel can now be dropped through the hole that is made for the spigot.

KEEP SMILING.

Because a snub-nosed girl said no,
He thought the world was on the blink;
For certain well-known reasons, though,
He didn't drown his grief in drink.

Time to Compel Saving Trees

By Gifford Pinchot

WHEN the price of newsprint doubled it brought forest devastation home to every newspaper office in America. If we had kept the lands that are most useful for growing pulpwood at work producing it, instead of allowing their productive power to be destroyed, the publishing industry would have escaped its present excessive burden.

More than 100,000,000 acres of forest lands which ought to be growing wood have been devastated, and are now mere idle wastes. If we had conserved their vast power to produce instead of recklessly destroying it, the price of lumber would not have doubled, and the consumer would have been spared the corresponding rise in the cost of living.

Cut More Than Grow

Most of our timber-producing States can no longer supply even their own demands. Lumber must be hauled from constantly increasing distances. Within ten years the Pacific Coast will be furnishing the bulk of the nation's lumber. Already our yearly freight bill on lumber amounts to $175,000,000, and, even at present rates, will reach $650,000,000 within twenty years. The consumer pays the freight.

Excluding land and timber values, three thousand millions of dollars are invested in the forest industries of the United States and those whose raw materials the forest supplies. The annual product of these industries is three and a half billions. Wage-earners and families dependent upon them make up one-tenth of our total population.

Out of about 850 million acres of virgin forests we have not more than 150 million left. Substitutes for wood, as a rule, mean higher prices for less suitable material and give little help toward solving the problem of timber supply.

National Commission

A national commission is proposed, with authority to make and apply such regulations as may be necessary to prevent forest devastation on privately owned lands. Such regulations would lock up no forest resources, but would insure that young growth will take the place of old. Uniform control, national and nation-wide, would put the lumbermen of all the States on the same equitable basis. Protection against fire (except in national forests) would be left in the hands of the States, with generous financial assistance from the Federal government.

The plan is intended to apply only to commercial forests and not to woodlots on farms.

Will it pay the private owner to keep his cut-over lands productive? In general, yes; but that is not the whole issue. It will pay the nation and the States, for forest devastation in the end leads straight to national disaster.

Should we resort to persuasion rather than compulsion? That has been tried for the past twenty years, and has utterly failed. Uniform, nation-wide, compulsory legislation is the only adequate remedy.

ENTERTAINING YOUR DAUGHTER'S FRIENDS.

Why make it so hard for your daughter to have a good time in her own home?

Don't be so crabbed and discourteous that she is embarrassed every time a young man calls on her.

Young persons interested in each other are going to be in each other's company, remember that.

If they cannot meet where they should meet they will try to make other arrangements.

Would you not rather your daughter entertain her friends at home? Be the sort of father of whom a daughter is proud, and make it a pleasure for her to entertain young men at her home.

When it is so comfortable at home and her friends are made so welcome there is no reason for being sly, is there?

You want to protect your daughter all you can, and are as interested as possible in her welfare, and you want her to meet the better class of young men, but you must understand that opportunity should be given at home to extend a gracious hand to her friends.

The girl who has such a home attracts the right persons.

SCIENTISTS SEEK FOR ATLANTIS AGAIN

By Garrett P. Serviss

THE search for a Pacific "Atlantis" undertaken by Professor Bryan of Honolulu is not unlikely to succeed, provided that it is carried on with sufficient energy, persistence and capital. I know of nothing in the realm of geographical exploration that could make a stronger appeal, at once scientific and romantic, than this.

One of the strongest confirmations of the Atlantis story is the universality of the legend of a great flood that came near wiping mankind out of existence. Plato' version seems to locate the site of the sunken continent on the present bed of the Atlantic Ocean. But in Plato's day America was unknown, and consequently there was no distinction between Atlantic and Pacific.

May Have Been Islands

It might even have lain partly in the Atlantic and partly in the Pacific area, including the central region of the Americas. It might also (and this seems the most reasonable supposition of all) have consisted of a number of separate, or partially separate, great islands, one or more of them being, perhaps, as large as Australia, and Plato's name of "Atlantis" might have attached to the most easterly of these extensive land areas.

Thomas Belt, one of the most fruitfully thoughtful of all travelers and explorers, was disposed to shape the Atlantis story into some such form as that outlined above.

Islands Once Hills

What a splendid new chapter of archaeology and geography combined would be written if the investigation now on foot should realize this picture drawn by Belt:

"Who can look at little Easter Islands, with its gigantic images standing up in unworshipped solitude, without feeling that this insignificant islet could never have supported the race that reared the monuments. But if that and other islands were once hills overlooking peopled lowlands, the incongruity vanishes. We see the images not gazing gloomily over the ocean that narrowly circles them in, but proudly looking across wide plains peopled by their worshippers, who from their villages and fields behold the gods whom they adore and implore their protection and support."

Meaning of Sinn Fein

Editor Boston American:

The British influenced papers here in Boston have given the meaning of Sinn Fein as "For ourselves alone," giving the impression that the movement for Irish independence was a supercelfish one. Of course this is part of the British propaganda. The real and Gaelic meaning of the words Sinn Fein is "Ourselves alone," meaning Irish self reliance. Mark the difference.

Realizes Danger

Editor Boston American:

Your editorial of the 28th, entitled, "The Two Present Parties Are Both Bad—Let's Make a Better One," shows that at least one great and influential newspaper, that reaches the homes of hundreds of thousands of Americans, realizes the danger that the freedom and the institutions of America are in, if the present policy of our government continues.

Whiskey No Medicine
Debt Slavery Ended
Why Talk to This Earth?
You Live on a Dynamo

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1920.

Whiskey as a remedy will not hereafter be mentioned in the American Pharmacopeia, a book of remedies prepared every ten years. This is based on common sense, not on prohibition.

Dr. Osler long ago demonstrated in his admirable work on medical practice that alcoholic stimulants are useful to undertakers only. A tired heart needs rest, not lashing with whiskey. In case of temporary stoppage of the heart, as Osler points out, alcohol might be used as an injection into the blood, not as a drink. Other drugs would answer the purpose better than alcohol.

As an alleged remedy whiskey is dead. The big question is, can it be killed as a poison, secretly manufactured and widely distributed?

Slavery for debt is to be wiped out in the Malay States by order of England. If a Malay man owed money, the man's children were taken "in pledge" and worked as slaves until the debt was paid, nothing deducted from the debt for work done by the slave's pledges. The debt was hereditary and the slave children's children might be kept working for the debtor. This horrified the British authorities.

Yet when Dickens lived prisons for debtors were scattered all over England, men rotted and died in them. There were even little private debtors' jails in which the prosperous might support relations in debt as we have private insane asylums for the well-to-do.

We have no debtors' jails in this country. But if a woman with half a dozen children is unable to pay her rent, law permits the landlord to put her out on the sidewalk with children and furniture in Winter, which is a good imitation of a debtors' prison, turned inside out.

Strange signals, apparently from the outside universe, are interfering with our wireless messages. These interferences puzzle Marconi and other scientists. One of our neighbors, perhaps Mars, perhaps Venus, they say, may be trying to communicate with us through the other.

Just why a planet millions of years older than ourselves, should try to talk to us, is not clear. You snap your fingers, making friendly faces at a month-old baby, you do not try to talk to it, for it has nothing to say.

One of the older planets may be, electrically speaking, snapping its fingers to attract the attention of our baby world. But they must know we have nothing worth while to say to them.

When we read about electric interferences through the ether, we are reminded that what we call matter is really electricity. The earth under you is a gigantic battery, "negatively charged to a potential of a billion volts."

Elevate the number ten to its eighteenth power, which would mean a string of tiny zeros all across this page, and you would get the number of electric static units in the earth's charge.

According to Fournier d'Albe, author of a most interesting book, "The Electron Theory," for each square centimeter of the earth's surface (about one-hundredth part of a square yard) there are 2,830 millions of free electrons or units of electric force. Your hand holding this newspaper is made up of molecules. These are divided into atoms, particles of matter inconceivably dense, around which the electrons revolve as the planets revolve around the sun.

Man is, indeed, "fearfully and wonderfully made." Well may he praise the Lord for loosing him safe on a planet charged with a billion volts of electricity, when it takes only a thousand volts or so to kill him in the electric chair.

Thus far Senate talk on the League of Nations, printed in the Record at public expense, amounts to 2,500,000 words. These would have been condensed into "Americans will make laws for America, decide about the spending of the people's own money and use of their army and navy without help or orders from foreign nations."

Congress decides that no more money must be spent to advertise remedies for influenza. A wiser Congress would spend any necessary amount to give the people important information without loss of time. The possibility of advertising appropriations being used as graft for favorite newspapers is not as important as to let people know without loss of time how to protect their health. This can be done through conspicuous daily newspaper advertising only. It can't be done through government pamphlets that go into the waste basket.
